PREFACE

With each wave of progress in education, timely books for the schoolroom have appeared; but in the inevitable set-back of the tide most of these have sunk never to rise again. Geographical readers, language lessons, stories of myths, nature study reading books, and physiographical studies, have all been upon the crest.

It is always difficult to test the value of a book at the time of its popularity, but the years do the work well for us, and pedagogical days pass so rapidly that even a few months may suffice to bury from sight forever some book of the time which perhaps really lived only in the breath of the publisher.

The books which retain a permanent place in schoolroom favor, are the real science which has been simplified without being weakened, the literature which gives atmosphere and concrete setting to the abstract names and localities of geography or lends its images to the thrilling epochs of history, and the literature of life which educates and broadens beyond all other means.

Much contemporary work is of this vital character, but the greater number of valuable books for the teacher are not among recent publications. The School Classic derives its life from the immortality of the literature it presents. The value of the school edition is in inverse proportion to the number of notes, the extent of adaptation and abridgment, and, for the old masters must be handled with due reverence, the childishness of the binding.

Every hour of the day in every grade of the public schools, may be made fuller and richer in its results, by the use of the right books by teachers and pupils. This addition to the teacher's power has become so widely recognized that nothing is more common than demands like the following:

Where shall I find the best material about Africa for my fourth grade? Please give me a list of books on physiography. What shall I read in order to form a vivid historical picture of the times of Richard III? Where can I get recent studies of children's drawing? What shall our club read in psychology or history of education? What stories will lead my primary grade to love books?

This volume has been prepared to meet this evident want. The needs of the busy teacher have been consulted everywhere in the arrangement; hence the books needed in teaching a subject are gathered under that subject without regard to the miscellaneous character of the grouping. No other catalogue would have placed side by side with books of travel in the South,—“On the Old Plantation” by Joel Chandler Harris, “Ole Virginia” by Thomas Nelson Page, “Yemassee” by Simms, “The Prophet of Great Smoky Mountain” and “The Young Mountaineers” by Miss Murfree, Cable’s “Bonaventura,” and Longfellow’s “Evangeline.” Yet every good teacher of geography knows how much more of the atmosphere of the sunny South will penetrate her class if all these books are upon her table during the study of that section of the country.

Again, no other catalogue will give with the histories of Queen Elizabeth and her times, even the biographies of Drake and Raleigh, and surely not “Kenilworth” or “Westward Ho” or “Guavas the Tinner” by S. Baring-Gould, “English Wayfaring Life” by Jusserand, “Literature of the Age of Elizabeth” by E. P. Whipple, or Rolfe’s “Shakespeare the Boy.” Still more remote would seem Roger Ascham’s “Scholemaster,” Bacon’s Essays, or even Shakespeare’s dramas, yet these and many more books of these different classes are all needed if the teacher would touch the real life and thought of the period studied.

Not only have books helpful in various subjects been classed together under those subjects, but books have been roughly classified under grades. However, the best books do not readily lend themselves to this latter sort of classification, so it has been constantly suggested that the children’s interests must govern. “The best is not too good for the youngest child,” says Warner. Literature, like life, may be intensely interesting to children who by no means comprehend its full import. Deprivation because there is a lack of full appreciation, is about as reasonable in the former case as in the latter.

The wide margins are not for ornament, but for use. The librarian or teacher may greatly increase the value of the book by the addition of critical notes, and references to new books properly classified. So convenient have these margins seemed to the author that use has already been made of them, as may be noted in the lengthened pages of Child Study. The early pages of the book were plated before some of the recent studies of children had appeared. These studies have been inserted as indicated. The value of space for such additions to a bibliography is evident. I. L.

PEDAGOGY AND PSYCHOLOGY

TEN PREFERRED STANDARDS

The following ten books represent psychology, history of education, practical method, and more than one system of philosophy,—every department, in fact, of teachers' interests except that of experimental psychology and child-study—a line which is considered important enough to have a separate bibliography of its own. With additions from that department, these books ought to make a very good library for a scholarly, thoughtful teacher. They are worth owning because they will bear repeated study.

1. Apperception—Dr. Karl Lange. Translated by the Herbart Club.

D. C. HEATH & CO. 1894. pp. 279. - $1.00

Simple and practical; the best help yet given on the essentials of the recitation. See pages 200-228. If a teacher can own but one book on pedagogy, this is the book to be preferred.

2. Educational Reformers—Herbert Quick.

C. W. BARDEEN. Reading-Club Edition pp. 231. $1.00

D. APPLETON & CO., I. E. Series - - $1.50

The most fascinating history of education, full of suggestion.

3. Theory and Practice of Teaching—Edward Thring.

THE MACMILLAN CO. pp. 262 - - $.90

Mr. Thring has an attractive style which may be either poetical or pungent. Chapters on Snoring, Running the Goose Down, and Attention, are attacks on prevalent evils. The book is full of good texts for teachers' meetings.

4. Education of Man.—Froebel.

D. APPLETON & CO. 1887. pp. 332 - $1.50

Read sections thirteen and fourteen of Chapter I. on the attitude of the teacher in discipline, and you will be convinced that no book will better repay the careful study which this demands. Compare the method of discipline suggested with Emerson's thought from "The Oversoul,"—"If I am merely willful, the child gives me a Rowland for an Oliver, sets his will against mine, one for one, and leaves me, if I please, the degradation of beating him by my superiority of strength. But if I renounce my will and act for the soul, setting that up as umpire between us two, out of his young eyes looks the same soul; he reveres and loves with me."

5. Symbolic Education.—Susan Blow.

D. APPLETON & CO. 1894. pp. 251 - $1.50

A study of educational principles as valuable in the university as in the kindergarten, though or because its illustrations are in the child.

6. Science of Education.—(Translated from the German with biographical introduction by Henry M. and Emmie Felkin.) Herbart.

D. C. HEATH & CO. 1893. pp. 268 - $1.00

Full of nuggets. Those who find one, keep on searching and find the book quite inexhaustible. In connection with this, read—

Introduction to the Pedagogy of Herbart—Chr. Ufer, translated by J. C. Zinzer, M. S.

7. Psychology.—Dr. John Dewey.

HARPER & BROTHERS. 1894. pp. 427 - $1.50

Not easy reading, but as one studies it, the mists and fogs investing popular ideas of mind are blown away as if by a keen fresh breeze.

8. Aristotle.—Thomas Davidson.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 1892. pp. 251. - $1.00

This is not simply a discussion of Aristotle's theories. It is a fair and broad view of all Greek education, showing the intimate relation between the Greek's education and the whole of his life, and calling attention to the tendency toward harmonious development which is the main lesson from Greece to us.

In connection with this read —

Health and Education.—Charles Kingsley.

D. APPLETON & CO. 1874. pp. 400 - - $1.75

Mr. Kingsley is much impressed with the Greek ideal and shows us our shortcomings in this respect. Note chapter on "Thrift" as suggestive of economy of power and time in the schoolroom.

9. Science of Education.—Rosenkranz.

D. APPLETON & CO. 1894. pp. 292. - $1.50

A standard rock in education, on which all must stand before attempting investigating voyages.

10. Wilhelmeister's Apprenticeship and Travels. —

Goethe. Translated by Thomas Carlyle, with critical introduction by Edward Dowden.

A. C. MCCLURG & CO. 2 vol. 16 mo. Each - 75c

Some of our best thinkers claim that in Wilhelmeister are foreshadowed all of our latest discoveries in education. The true poet always sees far ahead the truths which others must painfully prove. At all events, our foremost workers are now quoting very freely from Goethe.

CURRENT REPORTS

The following is a list of some of the current reports needed if the teacher keeps pace with the discussions of the day:

11. Report of the Committee of Ten.

NEW ENGLAND PUBLISHING CO. - - 20c

12. Report of the Committee of Fifteen.

NEW ENGLAND PUBLISHING CO.

200

13. Year Book of the Herbartian Club, with its supplements issued yearly, by

CHARLES MCMURRY, Univ. of Chicago. Each issue 50c

Especially valuable is the supplement to the First Year Book, containing Dr. Dewey's article on "Interest and Will."

This ought to lead the reader to a better understanding of interest and effort, and settle forever the quarrels resulting from one-sided views of mind. It will also arouse inquiry as to how our pupils are performing the tasks assigned them, and help us to secure whole-souled in place of divided attention.

The First Year Book ('95) chiefly discussed Concentration, with one article on Culture Epochs.

The First Supplement gave the discussions on this subject at the National Educational Association at Denver.

The Second Year Book has some discussions on Concentration, and much about Culture Epochs, including a very valuable article by Dr. Lukens on "A Difference Between Race and Individual Development."

14. Proceedings of the National Educational Association. Particularly those of '93 at Chicago, '95 at Denver, '96 at Buffalo. Address, Pres. Irwin Sheppard, Winona, Minn., Cor. Secretary of the N. E. A.

Articles in these Proceedings will be referred to under Child-Study.

BOOKS FOR PRIMARY TEACHERS
15. Waymarks for Teachers.—Sarah L. Arnold.

SILVER, BURDETT & CO. 1894. pp. 276. - $1.25

One can say of this what can be said of few educational books; it is so simple that the most ignorant teacher will profit by it; it is of immediate help, and yet built so solidly that it will not easily be outgrown.

16. In the Child World.—Emilie Poulsson.

MILTON BRADLEY CO. Large 8 vo. pp. 443 $2.00

This is a veritable treasure-house. It is full of delightful stories and other literature for children, with suggestions for collateral reading by their teachers. Simple studies of animals, plants, and trees are here connected with literature.

17. Kindergarten Guide.—Maria Kraus-Boelte.

Vol. I. For gifts. pp. 453. Paper, $2.00; clc. $2.75

Vol. II. For occu. pp. 450. Paper, $2.25; clo. $3.00

E. STEIGER & CO. - - - NEW YORK

An illustrated guide for self-instruction in kindergarten methods and principles.

18. The Republic of Childhood.—Kate Douglas Wiggin and Nora Archibald Smith.

Vol. I, Gifts; Vol. II, Occupations; Vol. III, Kindergarten Principles and Practice.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 16 mo. Each - $1.00

Every primary teacher needs a copy of a kindergarten guide. There is no marked difference between kindergarten children and first grade primary children. There is no way of teaching number in the first grades superior to that of continuing kindergarten methods. Notice the number work with the fifth gift as a help in teaching fractions. The study of Froebel's principles indeed still remains the most valuable help to the primary teacher both in understanding her children and in discovering the best methods of training.

19. Bound Volumes of the Kindergarten Magazine.

KINDERGARTEN LITERATURE CO. Vol. III-IV. Each $5

These are becoming scarce and are therefore growing higher-priced.

Vol. III. contains a series of papers on "Kindergarten Management" by Constance Mackenzie. These are of great value to a young primary teacher. There is another series of articles by Anna E. Bryan on "Application of Kindergarten Principles to Sunday School Work." This is the best help yet published for primary Sunday school work.

Vol. IV., among the many other valuable helps, contains a series of very suggestive articles by Miss Sarah Griswold on "Primary Morning Exercises."

20. Quincy Methods. Notes by Lelia E. Patridge.

E. L. KELLOGG & CO. - - - $1.75

The spirit of this book makes it one of the best helps for the primary teacher. Devices grow old, but there is enough real insight into the needs of children to keep this book alive for many years to come. A teacher who is not blinded by trying to follow the letter, cannot fail to get a clearer idea of the everlasting principles of education from these simple concrete instances.

BOOKS FOR LIBRARIES

It is desirable that all teachers should have access to libraries containing the following books. The cheaper editions are mentioned for those who cannot afford higher-priced copies. It will pay to examine better editions, however, before buying for school and public libraries. In many cases fitness to one's own special needs will secure some of these books a place in the private library.

21. Lectures on Teaching.—Joseph Payne.

C. W. BARDEEN. Cloth. 16 mo. pp. 281. - $1.00

Perhaps the most valuable of any general lectures upon the subject. Read the lecture on "Play," for a study of children.

22. Bound Volume of the Practical Teacher. Vol. VIII. '84 to '85, edited by Col. F. W. Parker.

E. L. KELLOGG & CO.

This contains Joseph Payne's "Visit to German Schools," valuable suggestions on Arithmetic Method by Supt. Balliet of Springfield; Method in Geography by Col. Parker, etc.

23. Apperception, or "A Pot of Green Feathers."

—T. G. Rooper.

C. W. BARDEEN. 1891. 16 mo. pp. 59. - 50c

This is an easy introduction to the study of how the child learns. Read it before Lange's Apperception.

24. Object Teaching on Words and Things.—Rooper.

C. W. BARDEEN. 16 mo, pp. 56. - 50c

It is interesting to see Mr. Rooper's ideas carried out in this definite concrete form. The final test of theories is their practical benefit. The lesson upon the Duck is one of the very few good typical lessons wrought out in detail in any book on teaching.

25. Theory and Practice of Teaching.—David P. Page.

C. W. BARDEEN. pp. 448. - $1.00

AMERICAN BOOK CO. Edited by W. H. Payne. $1.00

This is a standard which cannot be spared from any library of books on education. The spirit both of the words and of the life of David P. Page has exerted an incalculable influence for good among the teachers of the United States.

26. Talks on Pedagogics. An outline of the theory of concentration. By Col. F. W. Parker.

E. L. KELLOGG & CO. pp. 491. - $1.20

This book discusses concentration, with the child as the center. It is in fact a full volume of methods in different subjects. Blows such as only Col. Parker can strike fall heavily on isolated work; figure studying, apart from numbering; reading without seeking thought; oral reading without trying to make the hearer understand; grammatical analysis whose immediate end is not clearer comprehension of the thought analyzed; any form of expression whatever, separated from the motive to express. Lastly, such "unnatural, uneducative drudgery" is considered the cause of poor discipline, frequent punishment, and harmful rewards.

27. Introduction to Herbart's Science and Practice of Education. Translated by Mr. and Mrs. Felkin. With an introduction by Oscar Browning.

D. C. HEATH & CO. Cloth. pp. 207. - $1.00

From this book one may obtain a preliminary view of Herbart's doctrine, and of the definite scheme by which he would make education serve the end he proposes—morality. Education is thus pre-eminently a matter of ethics, and much emphasis is placed upon the three stages of the formative period—the lowest, in which authority must be used; the next, in which various methods of training become the disciplinary means; and the highest which is exempt even from discipline.

28. Introduction to the Pedagogy of Herbart.—Christian Ufer.

D. C. HEATH & CO. Cloth. pp. 131. - 90c

So clear and easy is this exposition of Herbart that it makes admirable reading for classes of students studying method. The book is divided into chapters on Psychology, Ethics, and Pedagogy. Concentration, Culture Epochs, and Formal Steps of Instruction are all discussed.

29. Outlines of Pedagogics.—Prof. W. Rein. Translated by C. C. and Ida J. Van Liew.

Cloth. 16 mo. pp. 232. Manila, 50c; Cloth, $1.25

C. W. BARDEEN & CO. - - SYRACUSE

Dr. Rein's application of the principles of Herbart to pedagogy must rank first in interest to those who remember that most of the American books on this subject are written by men who draw their inspiration from him. The practice school at Jena has been the source of a decided movement in American education. Those who study that movement should begin with Dr. Rein's ideas.

30. General Method.—Dr. Charles A. McMurry.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PUBLISHING CO. Cloth. pp. 224. 75c

The points emphasized are: Morality, the aim of education;

analysis of the lesson into the formal Herbartian steps; and concentration of studies, with literature and history as the center.

31. The Method of Recitation.—A sequel to General Method.—Dr. Charles A. McMurry and Dr. Frank McMurry.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PUB. CO. 1897. Cloth. pp. 250. $1.00

This book emphasizes the essential movements of mind in its progress from particular to general. The subject is not treated abstractly, but many lessons are worked out in detail as illustrations of the general principles of all method.

32. Essentials of Method.—Charles DeGarmo.

D. C. HEATH & CO. 1891. pp. 119 - 65c

This book is one of the earliest attempts to illustrate the method of the Herbartians. Lessons are here outlined very fully. The faults and merits of a system can be studied best in this form.

33. Course of Study for Eight Grades.—Dr. Charles A McMurry.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PUBLISHING CO. 1895. pp. 152. 50c

Courses of study are not universal truths to be followed, but rather concrete examples much more suggestive and much more easily criticised than general theories in the air. Dr. McMurry states that his course is influenced "not a little by the doctrine of concentration." It is, therefore, a very suggestive book to those who are attempting to modify their work in accordance with this doctrine.

Notice that numbers 1, 6, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, and 33, are all exponents of Herbartian doctrines. If more books are desired on this subject, the teacher is referred for books in German to lists given in Rein's Outlines of Pedagogics, and Herbart and the Herbartians. Two other books in English may be recommended to those who wish to devote more careful study to the doctrines of Herbart.

- 34. Manual of Empirical Psychology.—Dr. G. A. Lindner. Translated by Dr. Charles DeGarmo.

D. C. HEATH & CO. Cloth. pp. 274. - - $1.00

The psychology based on experience is the only psychology which can serve as a foundation of Herbartian pedagogy. This book is valuable in the study of Herbart. It is no less helpful to any one studying the experimental psychology of the day. It ought also to be a direct help in solving the problem of the schoolroom.

- 35. A Text-Book on Psychology.—J. F. Herbart. Translated by Margaret K. Smith, with an introduction by W. T. Harris.

D. APPLETON & CO. pp. 200 - - $1.00

Mental facts can only be communicated through figurative language, and figurative language must appeal to sensuous images. Herbart's images are motor, and his statements may appear absurd to those accustomed to other views of psychology. If one can divest himself of previous ideas and submit to Herbart's guidance, he will get a view of the phenomena of mind, at once unique, simple and true.

- 36. Lectures on Teaching.—J. G. Fitch.

C. W. BARDEEN. Reading Club Edition. pp. 436. $1.25

THE MACMILLAN CO. pp. 393 - - $1.00

Note the discussion of the Socratic method. When in this country, Dr. Fitch was appalled by the detailed courses of study imposed on our teachers. He questioned whether this plan would not produce teachers unable to think for themselves. Dr. Fitch is the author of the much-quoted phrase, "Teaching is the noblest of professions, but the sorriest of trades."

- 37. Art of securing Attention.—J. G. Fitch. .

C. W. BARDEEN. Paper. 16 mo. pp. 53. - 15c

- 38. Art of Questioning.—J. G. Fitch.

C. W. BARDEEN. Paper. 16 mo. pp. 36. - 15c

39. Science of Education—Alexander Bain.

D. APPLETON & CO. 1881. pp. 453 - - $1.75

The opening chapters on discrimination and agreement are especially recommended. In the appendix is a very practical article on "Passing Explanation of Terms" in reading.

40. Contributions to the Science of Education.—W. H. Payne.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. pp. 358. - - $1.25

The teacher who reads W. H. Payne, Joseph Payne, Col. Parker, and Herbartian literature, will have ample opportunity to weigh very different views of education.

41. Philosophy of Teaching.—Arnold Tompkins.

GINN & CO. pp. 280. - - $1.25

In the chapter on Unification of Aims, Mr. Tompkin's illustration of what is practical in education, contrasting teaching a rule for measuring cord wood with teaching the principle for measuring by the cubic unit, is the best argument on the subject in the English language. The theories are Hegelian, but there is an attempt to bring them down to the solid earth. Notice the following quotation: "It is said that philosophy can bake no bread, but that she can secure to us God and immortality. This ought to be sufficient. But she can bake bread, and must do so, or miss God and immortality."

42. The Meaning of Education, and Other Essays.—Nicholas Murray Butler.

THE MACMILLAN CO. - - $1.25

42½. Psychologic Foundations of Education.—W. T. Harris.

D. APPLETON & CO. 12 mo. - - $1.50

43. The Theory of Education.—W. T. Harris.

C. W. BARDEEN. pp. 54. - - 15c

Dr. Harris has more than once, incidentally, in discussions thrown light upon his method of writing. His essays are the product of repeated revision, and every paragraph is packed with scholarly thought. The philosophy of Kant and Hegel influences his view of education. His standpoint is, therefore, different from that of the experimental psychologists, his belief in the transcendental will being one of the main points of conflict with them and with the Herbartians.

44. Education.—Herbert Spencer.

C. W. BARDEEN. pp. 231. - - $1.00

The young student must not fail to read this fascinating book. Its views are constantly referred to by present writers. That science rather than the classics should be the main matter of education, is the burden of the treatise.

45. Science and Education.—Thomas Henry Huxley.

D. APPLETON & CO. Cloth. 12 mo. - - $1.25

Mr. Huxley writes as charmingly on education as he does on science. The attitude of a scientist toward education is usually considered more practical than that of the philosopher. Educational reading should cover both views.

46. The Teacher.—Jacob Abbott.

HARPER & BROTHERS. pp. 354. - - $1.00

We have not yet outgrown this thoughtful view of a teacher's duties. Young teachers will find very sensible advice in this book.

HISTORY OF EDUCATION

See No. 2, given in first list.

47. History of Pedagogy.—Gabriel Compayré. Translated and edited by W. H. Payne. Introduction, Notes, References, and an Index.

D. C. HEATH & CO. Cloth. pp. 618. - - $1.75

The merits of this book have been well tested. It has long been the standard history of education.

48. The History of Modern Education.—Samuel G. Williams.

C. W. BARDEEN. 1896. Cloth. 16 mo. pp. 395.
15 portraits. - - - - $1.50

A very valuable book, simple and readable. One important feature is its reviews of books which should be read in connection with it.

49. The Educational Ideal.—James Phineas Munroe.

D. C. HEATH & CO. Cloth. pp. 278 - $1.00

The history of education is here presented as a series of epochs, each epoch represented by a man. This is one of the most interesting ways of studying history, and is a particularly fitting method for the study of educational history where revivals have been almost uniformly under the leadership of individuals. The difficulty in presenting this phase of the subject lies in making evident the trend of education from epoch to epoch. In this, the author has been very successful.

50. Sketches from the History of Education.—W. N. Hailmann.

Pamphlet. pp. 39. - - - 20c

A brief sketch of the subject which emphasizes Dr. Hailmann's philosophy of education.

51. A Short History of Education. Being a reprint of the article on Education, from the ninth edition of the Encyclopædia Britannica. Edited with Introduction, Bibliography, Notes and References by W. H. Payne.

C. W. BARDEEN. Cloth. 16 mo. pp. 105. - 50c

Reading clubs who must work with slight expense, will find this a good outline for each one to own. There should, of course, be access to a library for the study of suggested topics.

COURSE OF READING

The following course of reading is suggested to accompany the reading of some general history of education:

Under Greek and Roman education see No. 8, page 9.

52. Alexandria and Her Schools.—Charles Kingsley.

THE MACMILLAN CO. pp. 132. - - $1.00

53. Pre-Christian Education.—S. S. Laurie. An Historical Survey.

THE MACMILLAN CO. Crown 8 vo. - $3.50

The book is not a history of philosophy, but a history of the rise and development of forces that were actually found operative in the people as a whole, and which the author considers had most to do with the development of systems of education. The book is divided into sections in which the different races are considered somewhat separately. This gives clearness, possibly at the expense of an understanding of interrelations.

54. The Dialogues of Plato. Translated into English with Analyses and Introductions by B. Jowett, M. A., Master of Baliol College.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 4 vol. Crown 8 vo. $8.00

This is a beautiful edition of Plato, much to be coveted in any teacher's library. Particular parts which may well be studied in teachers' clubs to the exclusion of profitless discussion of devices are the following: The dialogues of Socrates with Charmides and Lysis; his handling of the young man Euthydemus and his geometry lesson given to the slave of Meno; the Phædo with its account of the death of Socrates; the discussion of education in the introduction to the Republic. Read essay on Socrates in Representative Men by Emerson, and also the essay on Socrates in Heroes and Hero-Worship by Carlyle.

55. The Schoolmaster.—Roger Ascham (1515-1568).

CASELL & CO. pp. 200. - Paper, 10c; cloth, 25c

56. Essays by Michel de Montaigne (1533-1592.)
Translated by E. Hazlitt.
A. L. BURT & CO. Cloth. 2 vol. Each vol. - $1.00
57. Education of Children.—Montaigne.

58. John Amos Comenius (1592-1611).—His Life and Educational Works—S. S. Laurie.
C. W. BARDEEN. pp. 272. - - $1.00
59. The Place of Comenius.—Nicholas Murray Butler.
C. W. BARDEEN. 16 mo. pp. 20. - - 15c
60. Life of Comenius—Ossian H. Lang.
E. L. KELLOGG & CO. Paper. - - 15c
61. Orbis Pictus.—John Amos Comenius.
C. W. BARDEEN. Cloth. 8 vo. pp. 197. - $3.00
151 illustrations of original edition of 1658.
This is a beautiful edition of the oldest children's picture-book. Jean Paul loved it when a child, and used to color the pictures "from life."
62. The School of Infancy.—John Amos Comenius; an essay on education of youth during the first six years. Edited with an Introduction, Notes, and a Bibliography of the Comenian literature.
D. C. HEATH & CO. Cloth. pp. 116. - $1.00
63. A Small Tractate of Education.—John Milton (1608-1674).
C. W. BARDEEN. Paper. 16 mo. pp. 26. - 15c

- 64. Conduct of the Understanding.—John Locke (1632-1704). Bohn's Library. Two volumes,—Locke's complete philosophical works.

THE MACMILLAN CO. - - - $2.00

- 65. Life of Rousseau (1712-1778).—John Morley.

A. C. MCCLURG & CO. 2 vol. Crown 8 vo. Each 75c

- 66. Rousseau and Education According to Nature.—Thomas Davidson.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 16 mo. pp. 253. $1.00

- 67. Emile; or, Concerning Education.—Jean Jacques Rousseau. Translated by Jules Steeg.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 157. Paper, 25c; cloth, 90c.

D. APPLETON & CO. A different edition - $1.50

Miss Blow's opening chapters of Symbolic Education are good to read in connection with Emile. There is no better commentary.

- 68. Pestalozzi: His Aim and Work (1746-1824).—Roger DeGuimps. Translated by J. Russell, with an introduction by Herbert Quick. With Portrait, Bibliography, and Index.

C. W. BARDEEN. pp. 336. - - - $1.50

- 69. Hermann Pestalozzi: His Life, Work and Influence.—Hermann Krüsi.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. pp. 248. - - - $1.00

The different phases presented by 68 and 69 make it desirable for the student of Pestalozzi's life to read both. The simple earnestness of this great man's life and the enthusiasm of a heart fired by an intense love of real, not ideal children, cannot fail to bring inspiration to the reader of these volumes. In connection with these read

My Educational Recollections—Hermann Krüsi. Translated by his son, Hermann Krüsi in Nos. VI and VII of Studies in Education, Leland Stanford, '97.

70. How Gertrude Teaches Her Children.—H. Pestalozzi.

C. W. BARDEEN. pp. 320. - - - $1.50

71. Leonard and Gertrude. Translated by Eva Channing, with introduction by G. Stanley Hall.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 193. Paper, 25c; cloth, 90c

This is a quaint little story, full of wisdom, but more than all betraying the author's sympathy with children. The little Samoan boy, when thanked by R. L. Stevenson for his "forethought," corrected the expression, which was in his native language, to "love." So Pestalozzi's forethought for children always means his love.

72. Levana with the Autobiography of Jean Paul Richter (1763-1825)

D. C. HEATH & CO. Cloth. pp. 451. - $1.40

It is Jean Paul who said, "I love God and little children." One chapter of Levana is unique. It describes teaching a school to see analogies. It suggests a line of training in wit and fancy, untouched in any other book on education.

73. Herbart and the Herbartians. (Herbart 1776-1841.)—Dr. Charles DeGarmo.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 12 mo. - $1.00

See Nos. 1 and 6. One impressive fact in Herbart's educational life is that it began with the close study of two individual children. See Dr. VanLiew's article on the child-study of Herbart in Transactions of Illinois Society for Child-Study, Vol II, No. 2.

74. Autobiography of Fræbel (1782-1852).

C. W. BARDEEN. Cloth. 12 mo. pp. 183 - $1.50

E. L. KELLOGG & CO. Paper. - - 50c

- 75. Reminiscences of Friedrich Frœbel.—Baroness von Marenholz-Bulow.

LEE & SHEPARD. pp. 359. - - $1.50
See Page 8, "Education of Man."

- 76. Frœbel and Education by Self-Activity.—H. Courthope Bowen. American edition edited by Nicholas Murray Butler.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. Cloth. pp. 200. $1.00
This contains a review of the books written by Frœbel.

- 77. The Student's Frœbel.—Wm. H. Herford.

D. C. HEATH & CO. Cloth. pp. 128. - 75c

- 78. For Jacotot (1770-1840) See Joseph Payne's lectures.

- 79. Rosmini (1797-1855). Ruling principle of method applied to education. — Antonio Rosmini Serbati.

Translated from the Italian by Mrs. William Grey.

D. C. HEATH & CO. Cloth. pp. 389. - $1.50

"The mind forms ideas when the intelligent subject feels the want of them and not a moment sooner." Rosmini's method is of the logical and philosophical type, yet the above quotation shows that he would not make a bad Herbartian, at least as far as the doctrine of interest is concerned.

- 80. Life and Correspondence of Thomas Arnold (1795-1842).—Arthur Pennrhyn Stanley.

CHAS. SCRIBNER'S SONS. 2 vol. in one. pp. 490. $2.50

- 81. Same as 80.

WARD, LOCK & BOWDEN. 12 mo. pp. 548. - 75c

- 82. Same as 80. Abridged by James H. Carlyle with Johnson's Memoir of Ascham.

C. W. BARDEEN & CO. 16 mo. pp. 252. - $1.00

The last edition contains all that is valuable to the usual reader. Thomas Hughes says of Dr. Arnold: "We listened to Dr. Arnold as all boys in their better moods will listen to a man whom we felt to be, with all his heart and soul and strength, fighting against whatever was mean and unmanly and unrighteous in our little world—a warm living voice of one who was fighting for us by our sides, and calling on us to help him and ourselves and one another." We read Dr. Arnold's life to find the secret of the wonderful influence of this great teacher, nor need we be disappointed.

C. W. BARDEEN. Cloth. pp. 34. - 25c

- 85. Life and Educational Works of S. S. Laurie.

C. W. BARDEEN. 16 mo. pp. 272. Paper, 50c; clo. $1.00

- 86. German Psychology of To-day, — Thomas Ribot. Translated from the French by James Mark Baldwin. Preface by James McCosh.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. pp. 307. - $2.00

This discusses Herbart, Lotze, Wundt, Fechner, Helmholtz, and others. It is a very valuable book to make one acquainted with the trend of German experimental psychology.

- 87. Lessons in Psychology.—J. P. Gordy.

HINDS & NOBLE. pp. 401 1891. - - $1.25

An easy and valuable reading-book for beginners. It presents pedagogy as well as psychology.

88. Applied Psychology.—J. A. McLellan and Dr. John Dewey.

EDUCATIONAL PUBLISHING CO. pp. 350. - $1.25

Outlines of method derived from established principles of mind, simple, readable, and its method usable every day in the classroom.

89. Inductive Psychology.—E. A. Kirkpatrick.

E. L. KELLOGG & CO. 1897. pp. 208. - 80c

A very suggestive and simple study of the subject. The method leads both to the study of one's self and to that of children. The chapter on attention is one of the best.

90. Psychology and Psychic Culture. — Reuben Post Halleck.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. 12 mo. pp. 368. Illus. $1.25

This book will be readily comprehended by a class of young students. It presents clearly those views of the nervous system which are necessary to the comprehension of modern psychology and child-study. Mr. Halleck is a master of the art of clear presentation, and the refreshing originality of his illustrations makes the book decidedly interesting.

91. Practical Lessons in Psychology.—Dr. W. O. Krohn.

WERNER SCHOOL BOOK CO. 1896. pp. 410. - $1.25

Those who may find Romanes, Wundt, and Ziehen rather difficult and abstract, or to whom Donaldson is a little hard, find in Dr. Krohn's book a perfectly simple and even entertaining discussion of the Nervous System, Habit, and Child-Study. The application to teaching is direct and practical. The cuts illustrating the nervous system are among the best published.

92.—Handbook of Psychology.—James Mark Baldwin.

Vol. I, Senses and Intellect. pp. 343. - $1.80

Vol. II, Feeling and Will. pp. 394. - 2.00
HENRY HOLT & CO.

93. Essentials of Psychology.—James Mark Baldwin.

HENRY HOLT & CO pp 372. - - $1.50

There is no author who has presented all psychological problems so exhaustively as has Professor Baldwin. The Handbook is a good encyclopædia of reference on all phases of the science. The Essentials of Psychology is simpler and better for study. Both give a very good idea of modern psychology which is a very different science from the metaphysical studies of the past.

94. Principles of Psychology. Advanced Course.—William James.

HENRY HOLT & CO. Vol I, pp. 689; Vol. II, pp. 704. $4.80

95. Principles of Psychology. Briefer Course.—William James.

HENRY HOLT & CO. pp. 478. - - $1.60

A book full of problems vital to the teacher's work, more suggestive of method than any book on method, and withal, absorbingly interesting to the very teacher who used to find metaphysical psychologies dry and unprofitable. Moreover, the book brings inspiration for further study. Read the chapter on Habit, and note criticism of the same in Halleck's "Central Nervous System."

96. The Growth of the Brain.—Prof. H. H. Donaldson.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 1895. pp. 374. - $1.25

It is the fashion in educational circles to talk glibly of brain cells, association tracks, etc., when the speaker's knowledge is really what George Eliot would call a "vast faculty for ignorance." Let the young teacher be discreetly silent on what he knows nothing about, or else let him through the careful study of some such book as this, really understand what is known of the structure of the nervous system, and the phenomena of brain growth. Professor Donaldson's final chapter on education is especially valuable.

97. General Physiology of Muscles and Nervous System. Dr. J. Rosenthal.

D. APPLETON & CO. International Scientific Ser. $1.50

A good book to study with Donaldson's, as the reader of the latter will find some physiology necessary for reference.

98. Physiology of the Senses.—John Gray McKendrick and William Snodgrass, Glasgow University.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 12 mo. pp. 340. $1.50

This is one of the most important authorities referred to by Professors Donaldson and Halleck. A thorough student will be glad to secure this book. While it is exact, it is by no means abstruse. The general introduction is especially valuable for psychology classes, as it deals with the nervous system and sensation.

99. A Course of Experimental Psychology.—Edmund C. Sanford, Clark University.

Part I. "Sensation and Perception."

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 183. - - - 90c

Part II, yet in press, will deal with more complex mental processes.

This is a much needed classroom assistant to the teacher of psychology. Experiments are given and authorities referred to at every step. Child-study demands a knowledge of how to test senses, particularly sight, hearing, and dermal touch. This book furnishes direct aid in this line of work, and thus will be valuable in any teacher's library.

100. Thinking, Feeling and Doing.—E. W. Scripture, Yale College.

FLOOD & VINCENT. 12 mo. pp. 304. - $1.50

This is a popular exposition of experimental work in psychology with many illustrations making the directions very explicit and simple.

101. Outlines of Physiological Psychology. — Dr. George T. Ladd.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 8 vo. Illustrated. $2.00

102. Outlines of Psychology.—Wilhelm Wundt. Translated by Charles Hubbard Judd.

GUSTAV E. STECHERT. Cloth. - - $1.75

This is a very desirable book for reference in psychology classes. It is simpler than Wundt's lectures on "Human and Animal Psychology."

103. The Central Nervous System. — Reuben Post Halleck.

THE MACMILLAN CO. pp. 258 - - $1.00

A book like Professor Donaldson's, written on the theory that education consists in modifications of the nervous system. Professor Halleck's suggestion that sensations may be cultivated through repeated reproductions of images, even though the original perception is not repeated, is new and valuable.

104. Cosmic Philosophy.—John Fiske.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 2 vol. pp. 465-523. $6.00

Read chapter on Mental Evolution in Vol. II, in connection with Study of the Nervous System.

105. The Will to Believe, and Other Essays in Popular Philosophy.—William James.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO. Large Cr. 8 vo. pp. 332. $2.00

106. Animal Intelligence. George John Romanes.

D. APPLETON & CO. International Scientific Ser. $1.50

107. Mental Evolution in Man. Origin of Human Faculty.— George John Romanes.

D. APPLETON & CO. Cloth. 8 vo. - $3.00

OPEN COURT PUBLISHING CO.

Mr. Romanes discusses in his first book the development of intelligence in animals. In this, he attempts to show how human faculty has been evolved in successive stages from animal faculty. One prominent distinction is made between what the author calls "recepts," products of a rudimentary abstraction which is non-voluntary, and concepts made voluntarily. Recepts are common to man and animals, and are accompanied by sign or gesture language. It is the gradual development of recepts into concepts which forms the center of Mr. Romanes's thought.

108. Inquiries into Human Faculty and Development.

—Francis Galton.

THE MACMILLAN CO. pp. 380. - - $2.00

109. Lectures on Human and Animal Psychology.—

Wilhelm Wundt. Translated from the German by J. E. Creighton and E. B. Titchener.

THE MACMILLAN CO. 1894. 8 vo. pp. 454. $4.00

The study of psychology from the standpoint of natural science, is a very different study from the subject viewed from its philosophical side. Wundt's presentation is clear and gives a good foundation for the study of the other books on this subject mentioned below.

110. Introduction to Physiological Psychology.—Dr.

Theodor Ziehen, Professor at Jena. Translated by
C. C. Van Liew and Dr. Otto Beyer.

SWAN, SONNENSCHN & CO. - - LONDON

Ziehen should be studied as well as Wundt, for they represent two widely differing interpretations of some of the phenomena of the nervous system.

111. Mental Development in Child and Race.—J. Mark

Baldwin.

THE MACMILLAN CO. pp. 496. - - $2.60

Patient study of this book will result in a good idea of what theories scientific child-study is tending to establish. Chapters on Imitation and Suggestion are the most practical in the book.

- 112. Habit and Its Importance in Education.—Dr. Paul Radestock. Translated by F. A. Caspari. With an introduction by Dr. G. Stanley Hall.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 107. - - 75c

The fullest and best discussion of this all-important subject. The relations of psychology to physiology are especially emphasized. Read in connection with this the remarkable chapter on Habit in James's Psychology.

- 113. The Secret of a Clear Head.—J. Mortimer Granville.

D. LOTHROP & CO. pp. 108. - - 50c

In this book is another chapter on Habit, which is well worth study. It is devoted to warning us of the dangers of pushing habit beyond its legitimate limits. The possibility of reeling off whole books and sermons which are the product of automatism rather than intelligence, "must give us pause."

- 114. Psychology of Attention.—Thomas Ribot.

OPEN COURT PUBLISHING CO. Paper, 25c; cloth, 75c

Professor Ribot handles his subject in the light of modern ideas which have this advantage over ancient metaphysics that they afford practical help to the teacher. The chapter on the pathology of attention is especially interesting. Here is real assistance in dealing with volatile attention or with attention which changes its focus too slowly; children afflicted with either of these opposite maladies become serious problems in the schoolroom.

- 115. Diseases of the Memory.—Thomas Ribot. Translated from the French by William Huntington Smith.

D. APPLETON & CO. International Scientific Ser. $1.50

This book is even more helpful in the schoolroom than the one on Attention.

116. Connection Between Thought and Memory.—Dr. Herman Lukens.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 179 - - $1.00

No book which thoughtfully discusses presentation of thought in the schoolroom can be recommended as superior to this.

117. Memory; What It Is, and How to Improve It.—Kay.

D. APPLETON & CO. International Educational Ser. $1.50

118. The Secret of a good Memory,—Dr. J. Mortimer Granville.

D. LOTHROP & CO. pp. 96. - - 60c

This book works from the standpoint of experience, tests individual memories as to the character of the images favored, and gives many practical hints as to ways of remembering,—the most valuable of which is probably this, "If the will is to control the act of recovering, it must be directly concerned in that of storing."

119. How to Train the Memory.—R. H. Quick.

E. L. KELLOGG & CO. Manila. - - 15c

Mr. Quick is always sensible and entertaining. The value of his advice lies in the fact that he never suggests anything that he has not himself tested. One can't help envying the boys who were fortunate enough to be pupils of Mr. Quick.

120. Diseases of the Will.—Thomas Ribot.

OPEN COURT PUBLISHING CO. Paper, 25c; cloth, 75c

With this read—

Discussion of Interest and Will.—Dr. John Dewey, in Supplement II of First Herbartian Year Book.

121. Diseases of the Personality.—Thomas Ribot.

OPEN COURT PUBLISHING CO. Paper, 25c; cloth, 75c

122. Literature and Life.—E. P. Whipple.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. pp. 344. - $1.50

In this, read the essay on Intellectual Health and Disease.

123. Common Mind Troubles.—Dr J. Mortimer Granville.

D. LOTHROP & CO. pp. 102. - 50c.

As we begin to study children individually, we find a great need of books like the last four, for we find that we must deal with children and youth who are more or less defective. They are our problems, and both Ribot and Granville are very efficient helps toward the solution of many a puzzling case in the schoolroom.

124. Stray Notes on Class Teaching. A Lecture.—R. Herbert Quick.

OLIVER & BOYD. EDINBURGH. Pamphlet. pp. 12. 10c

This is in Mr. Quick's most delightful vein. It deals chiefly with discipline and is one of the best articles to be read with young teachers who are in training. Notice this definition of order: "The only thing needed for order is this, that the mind and will of the master should be absolutely supreme, that he should be, as it were, the brains of the body, and the most distant muscle in it should feel what he thinks and do what he wishes. Where there is this rapprochement between the head and the body, there is true order; where the connection is imperfect, the order is imperfect."

125. The Character, Discipline and Methods of Teaching Political Economy.—J. Lawrence Laughlin.

POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY. April and May, 1885.

These articles are recommended without reference to the subject Professor Laughlin had in mind, as an admirable concrete discussion of the best methods of teaching advanced work in high schools and colleges—a subject rarely treated in educational literature.

126. Addresses.—Edward Thring. With fine portrait.

C. W. BARDEEN. pp. 203. Uncut edges - $1.50

These addresses were published after Mr. Thring's death.

They include the address to the teachers of Minnesota. In the first address we find the secret of Mr. Thring's success in helping teachers—his experience with schools in the Gloucester suburbs. "How on earth was the Cambridge-Honor man with his brain world to get at the minds of those little laborers' sons, with their unfurnished heads?" He goes on to tell what he learned of those children. We are reminded of Amos Barton, in the Shepperton Poor House, and his inability to learn under like circumstances. It is difficult to keep from filling pages with quotations from these addresses. Don't fail to read them.

127. Power through Repose.—Annie Payson Call.

ROBERTS BROTHERS. pp. 169. - - $1.00

Miss Call has suggestions here on physical training which every nervous teacher and every teacher of nervous children will do well to read. Miss Call in her piquant style merely brings common sense to bear upon the state of shallow emotion and worry sometimes found in our schools, which is so ruinous to the most refined and sensitive natures committed to their charge. The book has already worked wonders in changing the attitude and character of many a girl disposed to consider her state of nervous worry a very praiseworthy indication of conscientiousness and to cultivate it accordingly.

128. Intellectual Life.—Philip Gilbert Hamerton.

ROBERTS BROTHERS. Square 12 mo. - - $2.00

HURST & CO. Library Edition. - - 50c

"We get no higher by walking, unless we walk up hill." Experience per se is of no value to a teacher. Read Hamerton for similar nuggets. Teaching deals so intimately with human nature, that books of this character are often more suggestive than those which deal with pedagogy more directly.

129. Success and Its Conditions. A Volume of Essays.—E. P. Whipple.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. pp. 333. - - $1.50

Essays on The Vital and Mechanical, Grit, and Mental and Moral Pauperism are admirable educational essays. The rare quality of the English in these essays will create an appetite for more of Whipple's books. Nothing can be finer than the essay on Grit.

130. Character and Characteristic Men.—E. P. Whipple.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. pp. 324. - $1.50

This contains an essay on Intellectual Character and one on Agassiz, both educational.

131. Mechanism in Thought and Morals,—Oliver Wendell Holmes. In Pages from an Old Volume in Life.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. pp. 101. - $1.50

Read this with Whipple's essay on The Vital and Mechanical. A keen teacher can learn more of method from these two essays than from any two volumes treating directly of pedagogy.

132. Children's Rights.—Kate Douglas Wiggin.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 1893. pp. 235. $1.00

A bright, readable book, full of sympathy with child nature.

133. Studies in Primary Education.—Mary Putnam Jacobi.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS. 12 mo. - - $1.00

These are valuable studies because the author is searching for her theories through experience.

134. Evolution of Dodd.—William Hawley Smith.

RAND, McNALLY & CO. - - - 50c

A pleasing story with a moral for teachers.

144. Roderick Hume. The Story of a New York Teacher.—C. W. Bardeen.

C. W. BARDEEN. 16 mo. pp. 319. Manila, 50c; cloth, $1.25

An interesting novel and a useful book for young teachers because it presents phases of life which must be dealt with when the young teacher begins work. Here are suggested conditions never mentioned in the training school, which may produce failure although they have little to do with general ability to teach.

136. Education and the Higher Life.—Right Reverend J. L. Spalding.

A. C. MCCLURG & CO. 12 mo. - - $1.00

Essays on Ideals, Self-Culture, Love of Excellence, Growth and Duty, Right Human Life. Bishop Spalding presents a high spiritual ideal of culture, one which if present in the purpose of every teacher would render useless the formal and separate teaching of morals.

137. Early Training of Children.—Mrs. Frank Malleson.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 127. Paper, 25c; cloth, 75c

This is a good book to recommend to mothers in mothers' clubs. Of course teachers should read it, too.

138. Home, Kindergarten, and Primary School Education in Their Vital Relations to Each Other.—Elizabeth P. Peabody.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 226. - - $1.00

Another book for mothers and teachers.

139. Gentle Measures in Training the Young.—Jacob Abbott.

HARPER & BROTHERS. 1871. 12 mo. pp. 330. $1.00

We are just beginning to appreciate the wisdom of Jacob Abbott. No book more fully illustrates the spirit of the new education than this, although it is a quarter of a century old.

CHILD STUDY

PERIODICALS

Throughout the list of articles on Child Study, references are constantly made to the following periodicals:—

1. Studies in Education. June, '96-'97. Ten numbers for $1.50. Address Earl Barnes, Stanford University, California.

One dollar spent for these numbers will give you more return than several dollars spent for any other of the books or pamphlets recommended. Prof. Barnes has an unusual faculty for sifting the wheat from the chaff, and of comprehending and suiting the needs of the teacher of average ability.

2. Pedagogical Seminary. (Begun in 1891.) Volumes of four numbers each. $1.50 per copy. $5.00 per volume. Vol. 1 and 11 are becoming scarce and high-priced. Address Dr. G. Stanley Hall, Clark University, Worcester, Mass.

This contains the greatest number of valuable studies yet printed. The reviews of educational literature alone are worth the price of the magazine.

3. The American Journal of Psychology. Published quarterly. Subscription for the year, $5.00. Single copies, $1.50. Address Dr. G. Stanley Hall, Clark University, Worcester, Mass.

Most of the articles given here are quite abstruse, and valuable only to those thoroughly versed in the latest results of experimental psychology. However, a number of very important practical studies of children have been published in the later numbers, and more are to be published. References to these studies will be given in the following pages.

4. North Western Journal of Education. Published monthly. Per year, $1.50. Address J. H. Miller, Lincoln, Nebraska.

This has a very good child study department conducted by G. Luckey. Child study numbers were published July, 1896 and 1897. These numbers can be secured for 25c each. Vol. VII beginning July, '96, is valuable now, as well as the current numbers.

5. Transactions of the Illinois Society for Child Study. Werner School Book Co. Vol. I, Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4; Vol. II, Nos. 1 and 2; Vol. III, No. 1. Pamphlets. Per number, 50c.

Vol. I, Nos. 1, 2, and 3 contain valuable syllabi. Vol. II, No. 2 is the largest and most important of the set. Vol. III, No. 1, contains the report of the week's congress in Chicago, April, '97.

6. Kindergarten Magazine. Monthly. $2.00 per year. Kindergarten Literature Co. Chicago.
7. Babyhood. $1.00 per year. 5 Beckman Street, New York.
8. Interstate School Review. Weekly. 5c per copy. Danville, Ill.

9. Inland Educator. 12 numbers per year, $1.00. Terre Haute, Ind.
10. Mind and Body. Freidinker Publishing Co. Milwaukee, Wis.
11. Educational Review. $3.00 per year. Henry Holt & Co. New York.
12. Mind. A Quarterly Review. 12 Shillings. Williams & Norgate, Covent Garden, London.
13. Education. Monthly. $3.00 per year. 50 Bromfield Street, Boston.
14. Child Study Monthly. Monthly. $1.00 per year. Werner School Book Co. Chicago.
15. School Education. Child Study number, July, '96, 25c. Minneapolis, Minn.
16. Normalia. Child Study number, June '96 and '97, 10c. State Normal School. St. Cloud, Minn.

GENERAL DEVELOPMENT

A sound foundation for this study should be laid in the reading of books on the nervous system and on experimental psychology. An easy course of this reading would be Dr. Krohn's "Elements of Psychology," or James's; followed by Scripture's "Thinking, Feeling and Doing," and Donaldson's "Building of the Brain;" or Halleck's "Psychic Culture," followed by his "Education of the Central Nervous System." See pages 26-29 under Pedagogy and Psychology.

A more difficult course might include beside the above:—Wundt's "Outlines of Psychology," Ziehen's "Introduction to Physiological Psychology," also Sanford's, and the works of Romanes, Ribot, Galton, and J. Mark Baldwin. "Physiology of the Senses," McKendrick and Snodgrass; Rosenthal's "General Physiology of Muscles and Nervous System." See pages 28-31 under Pedagogy and Psychology.

THE INFANT

1. Psychology of Childhood.—Tracy.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 160 - - 90c

We must begin with the psychology of childhood, not that of the adult mind, if we would succeed in learning how to observe children. This book should be owned by the teacher who wishes to engage in child study, as it gives the latest results in clear and simple form. The study of the infant is farther advanced than the study of school children. Dr. Hall thinks that the study of infants will influence profoundly our philosophy of education, while the study of school children will be more practical.

2. The Senses and the Will.—Dr. Preyer. (Part I of "The Mind of the Child.")

D. APPLETON & CO. International Educational Ser. $1.50

3. The Development of the Intellect.—Dr. Preyer. (Part II of "The Mind of the Child.")

D. APPLETON & CO. International Educational Ser. $1.50

4. The Infant Mind.—Dr. Preyer.

D. APPLETON & CO. International Educational Ser. $1.50

These books of Dr. Preyer's present scientific data in the study of the first five years of a child's life with his conclusions therefrom. No. 3 is later and presents new verifications and more deliberate reflection. If not interested in the details (scientific data are always dry to any one but the investigator), read over Dr. Preyer's conclusions and reserve the statistics to be compared later with your own investigations.

5. The Intellectual and Moral Evolution of the Child.

Gabriel Compayré. Translated by Mary E. Wilson.

D. APPLETON & CO. International Educational Ser. $1.50

This comprehends the first four years of a child's life. "The scientific interest is not in fixing dates at which a child is able to do things, but in finding the order of mental development."

6. First Three Years of Childhood.—B. Perez.

A. C. MCCLURG & CO. pp. 292. - - $1.50
Nos. 6 and 7 are careful observations of little children.

7. Notes on the Development of a Child.—Millicent W. Shinn. University of California. Berkely, Cal. - - - - - 50c.

Miss Shinn has a paper on the "First Two Years of a Child" in the N. E. A. proceedings at Chicago in '93. p. 773.

7½. Mental Development of a Child.—Kathleen Moore.

THE MACMILLAN CO. pp. 150. - - $1.00

8. Studies of Childhood.—James Sully.

D. APPLETON & CO. - - - $2.50

These papers were published in Popular Science Monthly in the years '93 and '94, and are chiefly valuable for comparison with one's own statistics.

9. Hereditary Genius.—Francis Galton.

THE MACMILLAN CO. pp. 390. - - $2.50

A study of the extent to which genius is hereditary.

8. BOOKS AND PAMPHLETS INTENDED TO GIVE SEX INFORMATION.—Earl Barnes. Studies in Education. Leland Stanford. No. 8.

The problem is here stated with great clearness. The bibliography is very full, and the critical comments on each book particularly helpful.

Some books designed to help parents and teachers in regard to this subject, which may be recommended are:

- (1.) A Song of Life.—Margaret Warner Morley. (For Children.)

CULTURE EPOCHS

1. THE EDUCATIONAL THEORY OF CULTURE EPOCHS. — Dr. C. C. Van Liew. First Herbartian Year Book.

See Nos. 9, 29, 30, 111, under Pedagogy and Psychology. "Mental Development in Child and Race," J. Mark Baldwin. "Science of Education." Rosenkranz, "Outlines of Pedagogics," Rein. "General Method," McMurry.

2. A POINT OF DIFFERENCE BETWEEN RACE AND INDIVIDUAL DEVELOPMENT.—Herman T. Lukens. Second Herbartian Year Book.

This is an article well worthy of attention. It throws light on the work of the early school years, and suggests some very important changes in the course of study for those years.

3. CULTURE EPOCHS, CHILD AND RACE.—Arnold Tompkins. Child Study Monthly. Vol. I. No. 5.
4. CULTURE EPOCHS. — Discussed by Levi Seeley, Dr. Dewey, Dr. Hinsdale and others. Second Herbartian Year Book.

6. RUDIMENTARY SOCIETY AMONG BOYS.—John Johnson, Jr. Overland Monthly. October, 1883 and July, 1884.
Development of society of boys compared with that of Aryan Race.

HYGIENE—Fatigue, Motor Phenomena, Nerve Signs

1. Mental Faculty.—Dr. Francis Warner.

THE MACMILLAN CO. pp. 212. - - 90C

2. The Children and How to Study Them.—Dr. Francis Warner.

KEGAN, PAUL & CO. LONDON. pp. 108 - 75C

This little book of lectures is full of suggestions as to the observation of nerve signs and the real meaning of activity of body in its relation to brain. "You should no more wantonly arrest a child's activity without due cause, than throw a stone at an animal without cause, or destroy a flower because you do not see any use in it."

CHILDREN'S STORIES

1. A STUDY OF CHILDREN'S OWN STORIES.—Clara Vostrovsky. Studies in Education. Leland Stanford. No. 1.

Nearly every number of Studies in Education contains some stories written or told by children, with comments. The collection thus made is of great value. Miss Vostrovsky's paper suggests one of the most practical lines of child study and furnishes the teacher with a criterion by which to try books and stories prepared for children.

2. Old Time Stories.—E. Louise Smythe.

WERNER SCHOOL BOOK CO. pp. 136. - 35c

3. The Story of Washington.—Jessie R. Smith.

REPUBLICAN PRINTING HOUSE. pp. 30. - 15c

These reading books for first, second and third grades are really child studies. The stories and expressions are the children's own work in reproduction. Notice that every sentence expresses a new event.

4. STUDY OF A CHILD'S BOOK. (Slovenly Peter.)—Ora Boring. Pedagogical Seminary. Vol. II. p. 303.

Miss Blow's discussion of the Mother Play in "Symbolic Education" should be read with this. Mothers and teachers will be delighted with this new version of the most practical work of Frœbel.

AUTOBIOGRAPHIES

Recommended for Child Study

The first seven are among those recommended by Prof. Earl Barnes of Stanford University.

1. The Romance of a Child.—Pierre Loti.

RAND, McNALLY & CO. pp. 179. - - $1.00

This is a delicately drawn picture of a child's inmost soul. Note the development of intellect through action in the child's first jumping; the picture of the happy duck and the unhappy duck, showing how naturally children express emotion in drawing. Note also the associations formed between unrelated objects under the stress of strong emotion.

2. Childhood, Boyhood, and Youth.—Count Lyof N. Tolstoi.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & CO. 12 mo. - - $1.50

Autobiographies which are valuable for child study must reveal the truth, either from the transparency of the author's disguise, or from the frank avowal of the author, combined with his ability to read his own soul. Tolstoi's book is of the latter class. Chapter 19, on Serozha Ivin, is an admirable study for one who would understand the strong friendships children form for each other, and their effect on character.

3. Journal of Marie Bashkirtseff.

RAND, McNALLY & CO. - - - $1.50

Granted that this girl was exceptional, still no thoughtful student of human nature can fail, through the reading of this book, to become a better interpreter of the ambitions, emotions, and secrets of the thirteen, fourteen, or fifteen-year-old girl whose soul is a conflict of new thoughts and new emotions striving with the old childish ones. The book is strongly recommended to teachers of girls of this age.

4. Diary of Anna Green Winslow, a Boston School-girl of '71. — Alice Morse Earle.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Illustrated. 12 mo. $1.25

Anna Green Winslow is a girl whom it is a great pleasure to know and to study. The primness of her record does not prevent one from catching glimpses of the real child.

5. Autobiography of John Stuart Mill.

HENRY HOLT & CO. pp. 313. - - $2.00

Facts of mind can not be as easily gathered or as clearly presented as facts of matter. There is, therefore, reason for thankfulness for every autobiography in which early impressions and early education are presented clearly and candidly as they are here by Mr. Mill.

6. The Story of My Life. — Georg Ebers.

D. APPLETON & CO. 12 mo. pp. 382. Portraits. $1.25

Georg Ebers was educated at Keilhau, a school founded according to Fröbel's principles. Aside from the interest in his reminiscences of Fröbel, and the view given of German politics of the period, the child student will be interested in the boyish fights, and the effect of fairy tales and of school journeys.

7. Convent Life of George Sand.

ROBERTS BROS. 16 mo. pp. 219. - $1.00

Some of the best studies on the government of girls who, like Mlle. Dudevant, are proud of being called "Les Diables," are found in convent stories. The Atlantic Monthly, Vol. LXII, page 797, contains a story of "A Convent School in 18th Century," which has been used in teachers' training classes as a study in discipline.

8. My Schools and Schoolmasters. — Hugh Miller.

ROBERT CARTER & BROTHERS. 1875. 12 mo. $1.75

A lesson may be learned from the way the pebble-beds of Cromarty educated Hugh Miller, no less than from the tales of his schoolmasters who did not educate him.

9. The Boy I Knew.—Lawrence Hutton.

ST. NICHOLAS. Four Numbers. December, 1896 to March, 1897, inclusive.

Here is a chance to study a boy whose environment is an American city. One is perhaps most interested in the effect of his theatre-going, and in his own dramatic representations of Deerslayer, David Copperfield, and of other books he had read.

10. A Boy's Town.—William Dean Howells.

HARPER & BROTHERS. pp. 247. Illustrated. $1.25

Here is again a distinctly American environment. This boy does not escape the analytical pen of the distinguished author. "One tiresome fact about boys is that they are so much alike," says Mr. Howells, and proceeds to unveil the universal boy, while he gives us delightful pictures of himself in all the phases of childhood, his fears, struggles with lying, his games, and his holidays.

11. A New England Girlhood. Outlined from Memory.—Lucy Larcom.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 16 mo. - 75c

From the little child who says, "I won't" continually, just because her aunt sang for her,—"Miss Lucy was a charming child, She never said, 'I won't,'" to the end of this charming narrative we have the real girl whom child students are so anxious to study. In the child study of Dolls don't neglect this book.

12. Autobiography of James Freeman Clarke.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Crown 8vo. - $1 50

Note the way Mr. Clarke began the study of Latin. "Turning over the leaves of a dictionary may cultivate muscle, but it can not affect the language faculty."

13. Life of Sir Walter Scott.—John Gibson Lockhart.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 3 Vols. - $4.50

The child of three shouting the ballads from Percy's Reliques

at the top of his voice,—the boy fascinating his school fellows with tales—we can find no better concrete study of the development of the imagination than in this journal. Note the early predominance of the motor images which Prof. Halleck finds so numerous in Scott's writings.

14. Autobiography of Leigh Hunt.

HARPER & BROTHERS. Franklin Sq. Lib. Paper. 20c

The delightful style of Hunt and the reminiscences of Charles Lamb and others, give this book a high literary value, but we recommend the first volume as a delightful child study. The boy who suffered tortures when people were kind to him, thinking, "Ah, they little suspect that I am the boy who said 'd -n it';" and who read Hudibras at one "desperate plunge" as a sort of achievement, can not fail to be interesting. In studying Fears, don't neglect Hunt's fear of the mantichora.

15. Records of a Girlhood.—Frances Ann Kemble.

HENRY HOLT & CO. Large 12 mo. pp. 205. $2.50

This is a girl who hated dolls. The effect of punishments upon this high-spirited girl, and the moods of the adolescent period are important points for study.

16. Sonya Kovalevsky. Her Recollections of Childhood. Translated from the Russian by Isabel F. Hapgood.

CENTURY CO. 8 vo. pp. 318 - - $1.50

A vivid picture of a nervous and precocious child.

17. The Story of My Childhood.—Madame J. Michelet.
Translated from the French.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO. pp. 118 - - $1.25

Notice chapters on My First Doll and Fear of the Witches.

18. Autobiography of Goethe.

Bohn's Library. Two Vols. pp. 520-543. Each $1.00

G. P. Putnam's Sons publishes the contents of first volume under the title of "The Boyhood and Youth of Goethe." World's Classics. 2 Vol. Each 50c.

The first volume is most valuable to the child student. The sufferings of the boy arising from the savage world of his play-mates conflicting with the civilized world of adults form one topic. The study of the religious phase of adolescence will receive enlightenment from the chapter on the "Boy Priest."

19. Life and Letters of Charles Darwin. With an Autobiographic Chapter.

D. APPLETON & CO. Two Vols. 12 mo. Illustrated. $4.50

Boyhood of Darwin—by himself—taken from above book, in Popular Science Monthly, December, 1887. Note especially the parts bearing on Lying, Childish Credulity, and Interest in Collections.

20. Every Day Experiences at Eton.—By a Present Eton Boy.

C. W. BARDEEN. 1877. pp. 184. - - $1.00

Note the general attitude of the boy toward school work and teachers, his difficulties in carrying out his ideals, and the influence of boys over each other.

21. Autobiography of John Gilbert Hamerton.

ROBERTS BROTHERS. 12 mo. Cloth. - $1.00

Education outside of schools; and schools so conducted as to be of little use.

22. The Story of My Life.—Augustus J. C. Hare.

DODD, MEAD & CO. Two Volumes. - $7.50

Mr. Hare adds another record to the many written and unwritten tragedies of childhood. Another child tormented by well-meaning persons in the name of education. More insight may come to a teacher from the reading of this pathetic story, than from many a volume on abstract theories of training, for here we have the concrete case laid bare, with the perspective of years to show just what came of the blind driving of uncomprehended spirit, which Mr. Hare looks back upon as his education.

23. Autobiography of Jean Paul Richter.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 413. Bound with Levana. $1.44

Jean Paul is always inimitable and his sketch of his childhood is correspondingly unique. Picture, for instance, the small boy reading hymns aloud for the edification of a poor old lady, and being so overcome by their sad imagery as to burst into a loud fit of crying much to her astonishment.

24. The Story of My Life.—Hans Christian Andersen.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 12 mo. - $1.00

"My life is a lovely story, happy and full of incident." Note the conditions which contributed to his happy childhood.

25. Autobiography of Frœbel.

C. W. BARDEEN. 12 mo. Cloth. pp. 183. - $1.50

E. L. KELLOGG & CO. 16 mo. Cloth. pp. 128. 50c

The gift of insight into one's own motives and needs, particularly our childhood's motives and needs, is rare. It was this that made Frœbel the first to understand the training of children. It is this which makes his autobiography exceed all others in interest to the child student.

26. Autobiography of Benjamin Franklin.

GINN & CO. - - - 48c

27. Autobiography of Harriet Martineau.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 2 Vol. Crown 8 vo. $4.00

28. How I Was Educated.—Papers from Forum.

D. APPLETON & CO. - - - 20c

29. Chapters from a Life.—Elizabeth Stuart Phelps.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 12 mo. Illustrated. $1.50

30. The One I Knew Best of All. A Memory of the Mind of a Child.—Frances Hodgson Burnett.
CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 12 mo. - $2.00
31. When I Was a Boy in China.—Yan Phou Lee.
LOTHROP PUBLISHING CO. 16 mo. - 60c
Yan Phou Lee was sent to this country and was educated at Yale.
32. The Journal of John Woolman.
HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 16 mo. - $1.50
33. Autobiography of Martin Luther.—Michelet.
Translated by W. Hazlitt.
THE MACMILLAN CO. Bohn's Library. - $1.00
34. Life of Lord Herbert of Cherbury.—By Himself.
CASSELL & CO. Paper. - - - 10c
35. Autobiography of Vittorio Alfieri.
HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. - - $1.00
36. STUDY OF BOYHOOD OF GREAT MEN.—A. H. Yoder. Pedagogical Seminary. Vol. III. p. 134.
37. ARITHMETICAL PRODIGES.—E. W. Scripture. American Journal of Psychology. Vol. IV. No. 1.
38. Autobiography of Joseph Jefferson.
CENTURY CO. 8 vo. pp. 500. - - $5.00

OTHER BOOKS FOR CHILD STUDY

1. Mill on the Floss.—George Eliot.
A. L. BURT. Home Library. - - 75c
Maggie is undoubtedly a reminiscence of the author's own childhood. Tom, Lucy and Bob are all real children. George Eliot's insight into child nature is as keen as is her penetration into older souls.

2. Imaginary Portraits.—Walter Pater.

THE MACMILLAN CO. 12 mo. Cloth. - $1.50

2 $\frac{1}{2}$. The Child in the House. Walter Pater.

THOMAS MOSHER - - - - 75c

In these portraits there is always analysis of "that process of brain building by which we are, each one of us, what we are." In the "Child in the House" there is given in exquisite English, a study of how the environment of a child becomes a part of his soul, "inward and outward being woven through and through each other in one inextricable texture." The book is especially valuable in arousing memories of one's own childhood, for there are many of us who with Florian Deleal have discovered that "accidents, the angle at which the sun at morning fell on the pillow, have become parts of the great chain by which we are bound."

3. Marius, the Epicurean. His Sensations and Ideas.
- Walter Pater.

THE MACMILLAN CO. 12 mo. - $2.25

Development of character through the subtle influence of surroundings.

4. The Boy's Revolt. A Story of Street Boys in New York. James Otis.

ESTES & LAURIAT. Square 12 mo. - $1.25

5. Jenny Wren's Boarding-House.—James Otis.

ESTES & LAURIAT. Square 12 mo. - $1.25

All of the books by James Otis, the author of "Toby Tyler," are greatly appreciated by boys, but we especially recommend them to teachers of public schools in large cities. The author's accurate knowledge of bootblack and newsboy may well be envied by any teacher who deals with the street gamin.

6. CHILD LIFE IN THE SLUMS OF NEW YORK. - Henry Campbell.
Demorest's Family Magazine. 1892.

7. Beckonings from Little Hands.—Patterson Dubois.

JOHN D. WATTLES. pp. 182. - - $1.25
Eight pathetic little studies, not in the least coldly scientific.

8. Child Nature.—Elizabeth Harrison.

CHICAGO KINDERGARTEN COLLEGE. pp. 207 - $1.00
Miss Harrison's strong good sense makes her observations and conclusions in regard to child nature of unusual value.

9. Child and Child Nature.—Baroness Marchholz von Buclow.

C. W. BARDEEN. 12 mo. pp. 207. - $1.50
Frœbel's ideas of the child, and his educational theories.

10. Life and Education of Laura Bridgman.—Mary Swift Lamson.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 12 mo. - $1.50

11. The Child and Childhood in Folk Thought.—Alexander Francis Chamberlain.

THE MACMILLAN CO. pp. 464. - - $3.00

The purpose is to give a view of the child among primitive races, and to trace the effect which children have had on our present social institutions and tendencies. Light is thrown on the development of children's languages, on games and plays. The book contains a very good bibliography. Read in connection with this—

THE CHILD AS A SOCIAL FACTOR.—Earl Barnes. Studies in Education. Leland Stanford. No. 9.

12. Child Life in Art.—Estelle M. Hurll.

JOSEPH KNIGHT & CO. 12 mo. Cloth. Gilt. $2.00

Twenty-five beautiful half-tone illustrations from Raphael, Titian, Van Dyck, Velasquez, Reynolds, and other artists.

13. The Children.—Alice Meynell.

JOHN LANE. 8 vo. - - - $1.25

Mrs. Meynell is a most effective writer. The child she pictures is no copy of his elders. He has a right to his own thoughts, feelings and even acts. He should, in fact, act in accord with the laws of his development, not according to our whims.

14. A Child World.—James Whitcomb Riley.

BOWEN, MERRILL & CO. 12 mo. - - - $1.25

A continuous chronicle in verse of child life. The charm of Riley's verse, and the exquisite sympathy and truth of his child delineations make this book a necessity to child lovers.

15. CHILD STUDY OF HERBART.—C. C. Van Liew. Transactions Illinois Society. Vol. 11. No. 2.

16. CHILD STUDY OF FRÖBEL.—Bertha Payne. Transactions Illinois Society. Vol. II. No. 2.

GEOGRAPHY

METHODS AND MATTER FOR TEACHERS

1. Earth and Man.—Arnold Guyot.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 12 mo. pp. 334 $1.75

The relation of geographical facts to the central fact of relief is so emphasized that this book is by far the most useful guide in the teaching of geography to fifth, sixth, and seventh grades.

2. Elementary Lessons in Physical Geography.—Archibald Geikie.

THE MACMILLAN CO. 18 mo. pp. 360. - $1.10

3. Science Primer. Physical Geography.—Archibald Geikie.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. 18 mo. pp. 119. - 35c

The value of this little book is almost ludicrously out of proportion to its size and price. There is such an appreciation of the learner's mind, and such skill shown in unfolding matter that the book should be considered one of the very best manuals of the method of teaching geography.

4. The Teaching of Geography.—Archibald Geikie.

THE MACMILLAN CO. 18 mo. pp. 205. - 60c

This book is to be commended both for the enumeration of the points in physical geography which should be presented in the grades, and for the suggestions as to best methods of presentation.

5. Outlines of Geography.

NORMAL SCHOOL, BRIDGEWATER, MASS. - 50c

6. Outline of Geography. Minnesota Manual for Graded Schools. Office, State Superintendent, St. Paul.7. Child and Nature.—Alexander Frye.

GINN & CO. pp. 210 - - - 80c

Mr. Frye is an indispensable aid to the primary teacher of geography, and it will pay the teacher of older grades to consult the book for method. Following Mr. Frye's suggestion; "Teach no more of any one topic than you intend to use as a basis for the next" will do away with much useless lumber in this subject.

8. Lessons in the New Geography.—Spencer Trotter.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 192. - - $1.00

This leaves one with the desire to know if all parts of geography can be illuminated as are the points used here for illustration.

9. Manual of Geography.—Jacques M. Redway.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 175. - - 65c

An exposure of many schoolroom fancies. Particularly helpful in the use of maps.

10. Oswego Methods in Geography.—Amos W. Farnham.

C. W. BARDEEN. - - - 50c

11. Methods and Aids in Teaching Geography.—Charles F. King.

LEE & SHEPARD. 12 mo. - - $1.60

This contains a very good list of teachers' and pupils' reading matter.

12. Methods of Teaching Geography.—Lucretia Crocker.

BOSTON SCHOOL SUPPLY CO. pp. 70. - 60c

13. How to Study Geography.—Francis A. Parker.

D APPLETON & CO. International Scientific Ser. $1.50

14. Geographical Studies.—Carl Ritter.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. - - $1.00

Ritter brings out the human interest in geography, connecting it with history. A wonderfully suggestive book to the teacher of both subjects.

15. The Human Race.—Louis Figuier.

16. The Ocean World.—Louis Figuier.

17. The Vegetable World.—Louis Figuier.

D APPLETON & CO. 12 mo. Each - $1.50

18. The Earth. Elysée Reclus. pp 573. 8 vo. $5.00

19. The Ocean and the Atmosphere.—Elysée Reclus.

HARPER & BROTHERS. pp. 534. 8 vo. - $6.00

Figuier and Reclus, like Guyot and Ritter, emphasize the cause and effect relation. If, as recent child study proves, children are more interested in how, why and result, than they are in where, and if this interest steadily increases during the grades, the teacher of geography will do well to consult these authors and become full of this phase of the subject.

20. The Earth as Modified by Human Action.—George P. Marsh.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 8 vo. pp. 621 - $3.50

21. The Tropical World. Dr. G. Hartwig. pp. 554.

22. The Polar World.—Dr. G. Hartwig. pp. 520.

23. The Aerial World.—Dr. G. Hartwig.

Nos. 21, 22, and 23 are large 8 vo, illustrated with maps, plates and wood-cuts.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO. Each - - $3.00

These books form an encyclopædia of tropical and polar plants and animals, which will prove its usefulness by being worn to tatters in any school where pupils from nine to fourteen have access to it. Where there can not be a large library of geographical books, the "Polar and Tropical World" will prove the best investment.

24. Distribution of Animals.—Alfred R. Wallace.

HARPER & BROTHERS. 2 Vol. pp. 500+600. $10.00

25. Island Life; or Phenomena and Causes of Insular Faunas and Floras.—Alfred R. Wallace.

THE MACMILLAN CO. 8 vo. pp. 553. Illustrated. $1.75

26. Geographical and Geological Distribution of Animals.—Angelo Heilprin.

D. APPLETON & CO. International Educational Ser. $2.00

Usually a child learns more from a wild animal show than from all his school work on animals. The teacher who would give some real understanding of their distribution, and of the barriers which prevent their passing from one region to another, should read Wallace and Heilprin. Notice also page 183 in Frye's "Child and Nature," and chapter X in Fiske's "Cosmic Philosophy." See Page 29.

27. Elementary Physical Geography.—Ralph S. Tarr.

THE MACMILLAN CO. pp. 487. - - $1.40

The discussion of rocks and soils, and the formation of mountains, rivers and other physiographic features, make this the most valuable physical geography for help to teachers in the grades. The "First Book of Physical Geography," see page 89, by the same author, presents the same features in simpler form.

28. Elements of Geology.—Joseph LeConte.

D. APPLETON & CO. 8 vo. - - $4.00

A popular and interesting presentation of points needed in good geography teaching.

29. Elementary Physiography.—John Thornton.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO. Crown 8 vo. pp. 340. 80c

30. The Physiography of the United States.

—James Croll.
D. APPLETON & CO. 12 mo. pp. 577. Illustrated. $1.50
This will help in the study of currents, making the subject of their causes much simpler. Incidentally, the book clears up some wrong ideas of the south pole. The author's method of proving his theories is interesting in itself.
- 38. The Cause of the Ice Age.—R. Ball.
D. APPLETON & CO. 12 mo. - - $1.00
A good book to compare with Croll's.
- 39. A Popular Treatise on the Winds.—William Ferrell.
JOHN WILEY & SONS. Large 8 vo. pp. 505. - $4.00
For other books on geology, physical geography, astronomy, and physiography, see pupil's reading list. See also Nature Study.
- 40. The Story of Earth and Man.—J. W. Dawson.
HARPER & BROTHERS. pp. 453. - - $1.50
- 41. Natural Resources of the United States. Jacob Harris Patton.
D. APPLETON & CO. pp. 523. - - $3.00

42. Raw Materials of Commerce.—John Yeats.

BOSTON SCHOOL SUPPLY CO. 12 mo. pp. 504. $2.16

The geology and geography of these materials with their chief economic uses.

43. Recent and Existing Commerce.—John Yeats.

BOSTON SCHOOL SUPPLY CO. 12 mo. pp. 516. $2.16

A brief review of industry and trade—its imports, currency, nearest seaport and internal means of communication.

44. Dictionary of Arts, Manufactures and Mines.—Andrew Ure.

D. APPLETON & CO. Quarto. pp. 1008.

No more useful book can be found for the grades, in looking up the processes of manufacturing steel, cotton goods and other articles.

45. Ten Great Religions.—James Freeman Clarke.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Crown 8vo. - $2 00

46. Reproduction of Geographical Forms.—Jacques Redway.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 84. Paper. 30c

Sand and clay modeling and map drawing.

47. Chalk Illustrations for Geography Classes.—Eliza H. Morton.

A. FLANAGAN & CO. - - - 75c

48. Map Modeling.—Albert Maltby. See page 408.

ILLUSTRATED BOOKS

Pictures often teach more than words. Public libraries are helping teachers in this respect, and many schools can afford to buy at least a few of the books recommended. Libraries may furnish the others.

1.	Great Cities of the Modern World.	-	$1.50
2.	Egypt. Large Illustrated Quarto.	-	2.00
3.	England. " " "	-	1.50
4.	Europe. " " "	-	1.50

CHICAGO.	"	-	-	-	-	2.50
PARIS.	"	-	-	-	-	2.50

BRENTANO'S, 31 Union Square, NEW YORK.

Illustrated books on four celebrated cities like these will enable a teacher to teach geography with almost the culture value of travel. In fact, people usually visit these cities without learning as much about them as may be gained in this way.

11. Guide Books. With Maps and Wood Cuts.

TAINTOR BROTHERS. Each - - 25c

As aids in teaching geography, good guide books are invaluable.

able. Those of Taintor Brothers are desirable as they are well illustrated and cheap. They include:—

BOOKS FOR FIRST AND SECOND GRADES

1. Seven Little Sisters.—Jane Andrews.
GINN & CO. pp. 143. - - - 50c
2. Each and All.—Jane Andrews.
GINN & CO. pp. 162. - - - 50c
3. Little Children of the Cold. — Lieut. Frederick Schwatka.
CASSELL & CO. Fully Illustrated. - $1.25

This book is one of the "must haves" in every primary school. The teacher finds nothing better to interest the children in cold countries, and the little folks themselves will read and re-read the book almost before they can manage its vocabulary.

4. Little People of Asia.—Olive Thorne Miller.
E. P. DUTTON & CO. pp. 405. Illustrated. - $2.50
"Little frosty Esquimo, Little Turk and Japanee," sings Stevenson. Miss Miller has all of them here, and more, fourteen different kinds of little folks. The descriptions are simple and entertaining as well as reliable. The book is easy reading for fourth grade, and may be used as a reference book in which children may find out about people and places as needed in their primary geography. All grades enjoy the book.

5. Aunt Martha's Corner Cupboard.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS. pp. 144. - - 60c

Stories about tea-cups and pottery, tea, sugar, coffee, salt, currants, rice and honey.

6. The Talking Leaves.—W. O. Stoddard.

HARPER & BROTHERS. - - - $1.00

Indian Life in Arizona. This book makes delightful reading lessons when paraphrased by the teacher.

7. Hiawatha.—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Cloth. - - 40c

8. The Story of the Yakima Indians.

SCHOOL EDUCATION CO. - - - 5c

9. Primary Geography.—Alexander Frye.

GINN & CO. - - - 75c

The stories from Frye's Geography may be used to supplement those of previous books, so that there are stories of children in hot, in cold, and in temperate countries, children living on mountains, plains, and lowlands; children of Holland, China, and Japan; with Indian stories, and stories of other races.

ESTES & LAURIAT. 16 mo. Cloth. Each 50c

29. The Pirate.—Sir Walter Scott.

HENRY T. COATES. Alta Edition. - - 50c

Grades studying Scotland should certainly visit the Zetland Isles with Sir Walter Scott in The Pirate. There can be no better geographical picture of the island, and the element of adventure chains the attention of boys and girls in sixth and seventh grades. The witch Norna of the Fitful Head, the wrecked ship, the pirate, with the vivid pictures of the sea; the herds of wild shelties, and the comical plights of Triptolemus on the contumacious little sheltie who is absolutely invisible under his long red cloak—all these are indeed fascinating. Begin with the Pirate early in the grades, and you need not fear but that Scott's other books will be favorites later on.

30. The Mountain.—Jules Michelet.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS. 8 vo. Illustrated. - $1.50
Story of the mountain.

31. Hunting Trips of a Ranchman.—Theo. Roosevelt.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. Large 8 vo. Illus. $4.00

3. Poems of Places.—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 18 mo. 31 Vols. Each $1.00

4. The Boy Travelers.—Thomas W. Knox.

HARPER & BROTHERS. 8 vo. Beautifully Illus. Ea. $3.00

These books together furnish a very accurate illustrated geographical cyclopædia.

5. Zig-Zag Journeys.—Hezekiah Butterworth.

ESTES & LAURIAT. Small Quarto. Beautifully Illustrated. Each - Boards, $1.50; cloth, $2.00

These combine literature, history and geography in a delightful way. Of all the geographical series, young grades prefer the zigzags. They will wear them out soon if cloth bindings are not purchased.

6. Vassar Girl's Series.—Elizabeth W. Champney.

ESTES & LAURIAT. Small Quarto. Bds., $1.50; clo., $2.00

These are liked by eighth grade girls.

7. Bodley Books.—Horace E. Scudder.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Two books in one volume.

Small Quarto. Each - - - $2.00

These are equal favorites with the Zigzags. They have about the same merits.

8. Picturesque Geographical Readers. See Page 109.

9. The World and Its People.

SILVER, BURDETT & CO.

This series is referred to on pages 104 and 108, and under the different countries described. They are very much liked by pupils and furnish admirable means of reference.

10. Geographical Reader. James Johannot.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. - - - $1.00

This is good for reference and for older pupils. The selections are classical and somewhat hard for the grades. Mr. Johannot's literary taste may always be relied on.

BOOKS FOR SEVENTH AND EIGHTH GRADES AND TEACHERS OF ALL GRADES, CLASSIFIED UNDER PLACES

Books of literary or historical value often convey the strongest and most lasting impressions of places. They are therefore to be preferred for geographical reading. Those in which locality is prominent are classified with books of travel in this list. For others see literature and history. Those which are easy supplementary reading for the grades are marked S.

JOSEPH KNIGHT & CO. Illustrated. Each - $2.00

In teaching the geography of the United States, it seems wise to select the most noted regions, those associated with literature and history, and make a thorough study, instead of scattering energies on all sections equally. The Hudson River is one centre of work which should be selected. The Hudson River from Its Source to the Sea is one of the best aids in this work yet published.

9. Letters and Correspondence of John Lothrop Motley.

HARPER & BROTHERS. 2 Vol. About 400 pages each.

8 vo. - - - - - $7.00

An idea of relations of nations and of what is meant by diplomatic service can be gained by our young students from these letters. Not the least of their value lies however in the revelation of noble character and refined manners. They cover university life in Germany, travels in Russia, Holland, Rome, and Paris, and residence in Vienna as Minister to Austria, and in London as Minister to England. The period is that of the civil war.

BRITISH ISLES

S 1. Geography of England and Wales.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS. pp. 224. Good Maps. 50c

This is intended as a reader in English schools. It clears up many points which stand in the way of our comprehension of English History,—points we seem to be expected to know, but which we don't know. It has a pronouncing vocabulary. It describes surface and manufactures of England, and its division into shires. An excellent reader, easy enough for fifth and sixth grades, making a good reference to accompany the first stories of English History.

HURST & CO. - - - 50c

The charm of the Howadji, the golden atmosphere of the east lingers with every reader. If we can fascinate our pupils with literature like this, they will turn away from ordinary books of travel for the young,—those which set up an impossible boy or two as pegs on which to hang encyclopædic information. An artist in literature alone can reveal the true life of a foreign country as does Mr. Curtis in his books of travel. Editions hitherto have been too expensive to be popular. We welcome this edition of Hurst & Co. as within the reach of all. The book may now be used as a supplementary reader in the seventh and eighth grades. Aside from the geographical value of the book, training the ear to the sound of Mr. Curtis's English cannot fail to produce good literary results.

HISTORY

METHOD

1. Studies in Historical Method. — Mary Sheldon Barnes.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 160. - - 90c

This book is based on a study of the historical interests of children. It is the latest of the valuable books by this author. It is recommended both to the teacher of history and of literature.

2. History of the United States for Schools.—John Fiske.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 12 mo. - $1.00

Mr. Fiske's suggestions on teaching history in the preface of this book should be read by all teachers of upper grades. The difference between a recitation where the pupil is reasoning independently, or "thinking on his feet," and a recitation of matter previously prepared, is very clearly pointed out, and the method of treatment in each case is emphasized.

3. Teacher's Manual. General History.—Mary D. Sheldon.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 172. - - 85c

4. Aids to the Teaching of General History.—Mary D. Sheldon.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 22. Pamphlet. - 10c

5. Studies in General History.—Mary D. Sheldon.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 572. - - $1.75

6. Studies in American History. — Mary Sheldon Barnes and Earl Barnes.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 442. - - $1.25

The supplementary reading suggested with each study is one of the most valuable features of this book.

7. Teacher's Manual for American History.—Mary Sheldon Barnes.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 155. - - 60c

History is usually a matter of absorption and reproduction of the thoughts of the book or the teacher. To those who really think it possible to make young people do their own thinking and reasoning, Mrs. Barnes's books become invaluable. Note the lesson on the crusades in the manual of general history. Try it, modified and adapted of course, with a bright sixth grade class.

8. War of Independence.—John Fiske.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 15 mo. Cloth. - 40c

The reasoning here is so clear that it forms an excellent guide to a teacher who desires the class to do their own reasoning from causes to effects. Most classes do not enjoy this book unless they have been previously lead to its conclusions independently; then they read it with pleasure.

9. Methods of History Study. E. A. Freeman.

THE MACMILLAN CO. 8 vo. pp. 335. - $2.50

10. Special Method. Literature and History.—Dr. Charles McMurry.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PUBLISHING CO. pp. 114. Flex cov. 25c

The method of story-telling in early history work in the grades is here presented.

11. Course of Study in History and Literature.—Emily J. Rice.

A. FLANAGAN & CO. - - - - 20c

12. Methods of Teaching History.—Dr. G. Stanley Hall.

D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 406. - - $1.50

This is a new revised edition. About half of the previous matter has been eliminated and new material substituted, adding greatly to the value of the book.

13. How to Study and Teach History.—Prof. B. A. Hinsdale.

D. APPLETON & CO. - - - $1.50

14. Lectures on the Study of History.—Prof. Goldwin Smith.

HARPER & BROTHERS. 12 mo. pp. 269. - $1.50

15. Science of History.—James Anthony Froude.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS. - Cloth, 50c; morocco, 75c

16. History. Essays of Ralph Waldo Emerson.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 12 mo. Popular Ed. $1.00

17. Philosophy of the State and of History.—Georg Wilhelm Friedrich Hegel. Edited by Chas. Morris.

S. C. GRIGGS & CO. pp. 306. - - $1.25

18. A Manual of Historical Literature.—Charles Kendall Adams, President of Cornell University.

HARPER & BROTHERS. 8 vo. pp. 720. - $2.50

This is a critique of the various histories, pointing out merits and defects,—an invaluable assistance to a teacher or student of the subject.

FIRST FOUR GRADES

The classification here is merely suggestive, any book which describes events vividly may be adapted to the lowest grades. Books from which material is drawn for lower grades are read with great interest by higher grades. In fact a test of success in telling historical stories is the pupil's present or later interest in the books from which material is selected. There ought to be a larger proportion of general history stories, but these are comparatively rare. The myths have been classified with the literature.

1. Stories of Great Americans for Little Americans.—

Edward Eggleston.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. pp. 159. - - 40c

Suitable for third grade reading.

2. Stories of American Life and Adventure.—Edward Eggleston.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. - - - 50c

Suitable for fourth grade reading.

3. Stories of American History.—N. S. Dodge.

LEE & SHEPARD. 16 mo. pp. 176 Illustrated. 35c

4. In the Child World.—Poulsson. See page 11.

This suggests lessons for national holidays.

5. ADVENTURES OF COLUMBUS. Serial in Our Little Men and Women, January-December, 1886.6. ADVENTURES OF EARLY DISCOVERERS. Serial in Our Little Men and Women, January-December, 1887.6½. Four True Stories of Life and Adventure. Columbus, Standish, Franklin, John Smith.—Jessie R. Smith.

WILLIAM BEVERLY HARRISON. N. Y. - - 36c

A reader for second or third grade.

7. Stories of Our Country. James Johonnot.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. - - - 40c

8. Pioneers of the Revolution.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PUB. CO. Stiff covers, 30c; cloth, 35c

9. Life of Washington.—Jessie R. Smith.

REPUBLICAN PRINTING HOUSE. pp. 30. - 15c

This book represents a successful experiment in child study. The children have been allowed to select what interests them, and the result is a story almost every sentence of which expresses action. The book is, therefore, not only a delightful reader for third grade, but very suggestive to the teacher who wishes to learn the art of story telling.

10. Story of Benjamin Franklin.

WERNER SCHOOL BOOK CO. Flexible Cloth. 10c

11. Boston Tea-Party and Other Stories of the Revolution.—H. Watson.

LEE & SHEPARD. - - - - 40c

12. True Stories from American History.—Agnes Strickland.

HENRY T. COATES. Alta Edition. - - 50c

13. Stories of the Civil War.—A. F. Blaisdell.

LEE & SHEPARD. - - - - 30c

14. Grandfather's Stories.—James Johonnot.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. - - - 40c

15. Stories of Indian Children.—Mary Hall Husted.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PUB. CO. pp. 175. Illustrated. 60c

16. Story of the Yakima Indians. See page 102.17. Hiawatha.—Longfellow. See page 102.18. Above the Range.—Theodora R. Jenness.

W. A. WILDE & CO. 12 mo. - - $1.25

For other Indian stories see page 283.

19. Uncle Tom's Cabin.—Harriet Beecher Stowe.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Paper, 25c; cloth, 50c

About two weeks before Lincoln's birthday, the story of Uncle Tom's Cabin was told to each of the four primary grades in a certain school. The story was divided into eight episodes, each forming one lesson. The result was very successful.

20. Stories of Heroic Deeds.—James Johonnot.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. - - - 30c

21. Three Greek Children.—A. J. Church.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS. 12 mo. Illus. in Colors. $1.25

Suitable for fourth and fifth grades. Actual use for several years has made this book a necessity in some schools. It is a good introduction to Guerber's "Story of the Greeks," helps the understanding of literature, and above all, intensely interests the children.

22. Merry Adventures of Robin Hood.—Howard Pyle.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. Royal 8 vo. pp. 296. $3.00

In a fourth and fifth grade which has been tested with a great variety of literature, no book has ever aroused so much enthusiasm as the "Merry Adventures of Robin Hood." The illustrations have contributed largely to the interest, and the book is never allowed to rest in the library for a single night.

23. Tales from St. Paul's Cathedral. Told to Children.—Mrs. Fretven Lord. See page 103.24. Simple Stories from English History. Earliest Time to 1485.—J. W. Allen.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO. pp. 128. - - 25c

25. Simple Stories from English History. 1485 to Reign of Queen Victoria.—J. W. Allen.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO. pp. 128. - - 30c

26. Stories from English History for Young Americans.

HARPER & BROTHERS. 8 vo. pp. 784. - $2.00

FIFTH AND SIXTH GRADES

1. Stories of the Olden Time.—James Johonnot.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. - - - 54c

2. Stories of Other Lands.—James Johonnot.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. - - - 40c

3. Story of the Greeks.—H. A. Guerber.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. 12 mo. pp. 288. - 60c

4. Story of the Romans.—H. A. Guerber.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. 12 mo. - - 60c

5. Story of the Chosen People.—H. A. Guerber.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. 12 mo. - - 60c

These stories are told simply and are easily read by sixth and seventh grades. New terms are marked with diacritical marks on first appearance and thereafter printed in ordinary form. The author has selected the features most interesting to boys and girls and so gives them readable stories.

6. Beginners American History.—Montgomery.

GINN & CO. - - - - 60c

Biography mainly. It may be used as a reader, or stories may be told, and the book used as a reference book.

7. A First Book in American History.—Edward Eggleston.

Delightfully written. Chiefly biography.

8. Pioneer History Stories of the Mississippi Valley.—Dr. Charles McMurry.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PUBLISHING CO. - - 50c

This is a most valuable book for use in the Mississippi Valley states. It is the best book for beginning history in country schools, or in other schools where the pupils have had no primary work in this subject.

9. Story of Tonty.—Mrs. Hartwell Catherwood.

A. C. MCCLURG & CO. pp. 227. - - $1.25

A romantic story describing Frontenac, Father Hennepin and LaSalle.

10. Pioneers of the Revolution.—By a Colonist.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PUB. CO. - - - 60c

11. Illustrated History of Minnesota.—T. H. Kirk.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. pp. 244. - - $1.25

This is valuable in Minnesota, to use in connection with the study of "Pioneers of the Northwest."

12. Early History of Maine Prairie and Adjoining Towns. E. H. Atwood.

E. H. ATWOOD. ST. CLOUD. - - - 75c

This gives a very readable account of the situation in Stearns county and adjoining counties in Minnesota during the Indian outbreak in 1862. Books of this kind are valuable in schools near the places mentioned. They connect in the child's mind the mysterious book-history with real flesh-and-blood persons whom he knows, and with the real earth on which he has actually walked.

13. The Childhood of the World. Edward Clodd.

TRUBNER. LONDON. 12 mo. pp. 118. - $1.00

This has been made use of in the stories in general history in the sixth grade. It is not a guide, by any means, but it is a valuable assistant.

14. Ten Boys on the Road from Long Ago to Now.—Jane Andretes.

GINN & CO. pp. 240. - - - $1.00

This is invaluable when each story is used to help other stories of the same epoch. For instance, the Talisman, story of Sir Launfal, or any tale of chivalry will be helped by the story of Gilbert's training as a knight.

15. The Horse Fair.—James Baldwin.

CENTURY CO. 8 vo. pp. 300. - - - $1.50

This introduces in an interesting way all the notable horses of history.

16. Jed.—Warren Lee Goss.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL. - . - $1.50

A story of adventures in Virginia during the campaigns of '61 and '65. A great favorite with boys.

17. Guert Ten Eyck.—W. O. Stoddard. Illustrated by Frank T. Merrill.

LOTHROP PUBLISHING CO. Square 8 vo. - - - $1.50

This is a story of the revolution with Nathan Hale as the chief hero. "We boys came near being deprived of the use of the public library because we fought for possession of the Wide Awakes, so anxious were we to see the next number of Guert Ten Eyck." This is quoted from a young man, who was a boy when the story was published as a serial in the Wide Awake.

18. Autobiography of Benjamin Franklin.

GINN & CO. - - - Boards, 40c; cloth, 50c

The grades never think this prosy, as some of us older ones anticipated. They should have a copy of Poor Richard's Almanac to accompany it.

19. True Stories from History and Biography. —Nathaniel Hawthorne.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. - - - 40c

- 20. Two Little Confederates.—T. Nelson Page.
CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. pp. 156. Illustrated. $1.50
A great favorite with these grades.
- 21. Boy's Heroes.—Edward Everett Hale.
LOTHROP PUBLISHING CO. - - $1.00
Israel Putnam, Lafayette, and others.
- 22. Peasant and Prince.—Harriet Martineau.

GINN & CO. - - - - 50c
- 24. Journal of the Plague.—Daniel Defoe.
MAYNARD, MERRILL & CO. Cloth. - 24c
- 25. Story of the Spanish Armada.
THOMAS NELSON & SONS. pp. 160. Illustrated. 60c
The illustrations are taken from old and rare wood cuts. They present the situation most vividly. The book closes with a quaint old Thanksgiving song set to music, the ballads of Thomas Delaney, originally published in 1588, and Macaulay's Spanish Armada.
- 26. Hugh Melville's Quest.—F. M. Holmes.

33. Selections from American Authors.—Samuel Eliot.

SHELDON & CO. - 60c

This contains the autobiography of Benjamin Franklin abridged, Familiar letters of John and Abigail Adams, Cooper's famous Story of the Spy, abridged; and selections from Longfellow's Tales of a Wayside Inn. This book has been in use for many years, and it has never been supplanted by any better supplementary reading for sixth and seventh or eighth grades. Our history lessons fail if the pupils do not feel the noble spirit of Franklin, Adams and Washington, and they get this best from literature. Some of the selections are abridged, but this has been done so successfully that the pupils always seek complete copies for home reading. In no other form can the same reading matter be secured for less than three times the price of this book.

34. Books by Everett T. Tomlinson.

1. THREE COLONIAL BOYS.
2. THREE YOUNG CONTINENTALS.
3. THE BOY SOLDIERS OF 1812.
4. THE BOY OFFICERS OF 1812.

LEE & SHEPARD. 12 mo. Illustrated. Each $1.50

35. Children's Life of Lincoln.—M. Louise Putnam.

A. C. MCCLURG & CO. pp. 291. - - $1.25

The story is told simply but with a dignity which commands the respect of children. The author stops deliberately before entering upon the public life of Lincoln and gives a perfectly plain and simple study on our government and modes of election to office, and thereafter throughout the story there is constant light thrown on the machinery of public affairs. Pupils often fail to comprehend United States history because they do not understand the points in civil government which our text-books seem to consider innate in the future American citizen. If this book is used as a reader in the biographical phase of history study, fifth and sixth grades, it will be found that it furnishes valuable apperceptive material for the more serious study of history in the eighth grade.

35. Stories from Early English History.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & CO. Square 8 vo. - $2.50

37. To the Lions.—A. J. Church.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 12 mo. - $1.25

A story of Rome.

38. Two Thousand Years Ago.—A. J. Church.

DODD, MEAD & CO. Illustrated. - $1.00

Mr. Church's books have been found very useful in third, fourth and fifth grades. The stories are read to the pupils and the impression deepened by the use of the admirable illustrations in the books. The children enjoy them, reproduce them readily, and so the books furnish matter for both language and history. As school library books they are favorites.

39. Stories from English History. From the Lord Protector to Victoria.

THE MACMILLAN CO. 12 mo. Illustrated. - $1.00

Among the subjects of these twenty-five stories are: The Lord Protector, Blenheim and after, Quebec, The lost colonies, The greatest sailor since the world began, Waterloo and Cawnpore.

40. Stories of War.—Edward Everett Hale.

ROBERTS BROS. 16 mo. - $1.00

41. Story of United States Navy.—Benson J. Lossing.

HARPER & BROTHERS. 12 mo. Half-morocco. $1.75

This is much liked by the pupils of fifth and sixth grades.

42. Paul Jones.—J. S. C. Abbott.

HARPER & BROTHERS. Illustrated. - $1.00

43. Magna Charta Stories.—Arthur Gilman.

LOTHROP PUBLISHING CO. pp. 192. - 75c

44. The Century Book of Famous Americans.—Elbridge S. Brooks.

CENTURY CO. pp. 250. $7\frac{3}{4} \times 9\frac{3}{4}$. - \$1.50

The boys visit Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Kentucky, inspect the historic homes, and talk much of the men who made them famous. A very valuable book for the school library.

SEVENTH AND EIGHTH GRADES

A list of books classified under the different epochs of history are given here. They will be useful to teachers of all grades.

Books useful as supplementary readers, either at school or at home are distinguished from the more difficult reading matter by the letter S.

SERIES OF BOOKS AND BOOKS OF GENERAL HISTORICAL INTEREST

S. 1. Pictorial Histories.—S. Goodrich.

1. ENGLAND. 2. GREECE. 3. ROME. 4. THE WORLD.
5. THE UNITED STATES.

E. H. BUTLER & CO. 5 Vols. Each - $1.25

If the main epochs of the world's history are presented in sixth and seventh grades, these pictorial histories may be used to great advantage. Pictures at this stage often convey more ideas than do words. These books are helps in literature as well as in history.

2. Stories of the Nations.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS. 12 mo. Illus. Each $1.50

Over forty volumes. These books form the best popular series published. They constitute a very fine historical library by themselves.

3. Heroes of the Nations.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS. 12 mo. Illus. Each $1.50

4. Epochs of Ancient History.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 12 mo. Each $1.00

5. Epochs of Modern History.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 12 mo. Each $1.00

6. Beacon Lights of History.—John Lord.

1. JEWISH HEROES AND PROPHETS.
2. OLD PAGAN CIVILIZATIONS.
3. ANTIQUITY.
4. MIDDLE AGES.
5. RENAISSANCE AND REFORMATION.
6. WAR AND STATESMANSHIP.
7. GREAT WOMEN.
8. MODERN EUROPEAN STATESMEN.
9. AMERICAN STATESMEN.
10. NINETEENTH CENTURY WRITERS.

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT. 10 Vols. Cloth. Nearly 500 pp. each. Sold only in Sets. - $21.00

About twelve prominent characters are selected and treated under each heading. The salient points are struck at once, and the whole set furnishes in brief a full historical library, every point of which can be seen in relief. The school library needs this set of books and can afford to sacrifice many others if the price seems high.

7. Makers of History.—Walter Besant.

MERRILL & BAKER. 12 mo. Each - $1.00

S 8. Historical Tales.—Charles Morris.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT CO. Each - - $1.25

S. 11. J. S. C. Abbott's Histories.

LEE & SHEPARD. Illustrated. Each - $1.00

S 12. Stories from History.—Agnes Strickland.

1. VIKI-GOTHS OF FRANCE.
2. ANGLO-SAXONS.
3. ALFRED THE GREAT.
4. CRUSADER.
5. WILLIAM TELL.
6. WAR OF YORK AND LANCASTER.

HENRY T. COATES. About 360 pp. in each. 75c

13. Historic Towns.

14. Torch Bearers of History. — Amelia Hutchinson Stirling.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS. 12 mo. - $1.50

A connected series of historical sketches: Part I—Homer, Sophocles, Socrates, Alexander the Great, Julius Cæsar, Hypatia, Part II—Arthur, Charlemagne, Rollo, Richard Coeur de Lion; Part III—William of Orange, Sir Francis Drake, Henry of Navarre, Richelieu, Cromwell, William III, Peter the Great, Frederick the Great, Washington. The epochs selected here would not make a bad selection for the biographical stories of sixth and seventh grades.

15. Fifteen Decisive Battles of the World.—E. S. Creasy.

HARPER & BROTHERS. pp. 364. - - $1.00

A. L. BURT. Home Library. - - 75c

Carlyle's Hero as Prophet (Mahomet), is published by Maynard, Merrill & Co. for 12 cents.

21. Representative Men.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

HURST & CO. Handy Volume Series. - 20c

22. Ten Great Religions.—Clarke. See page 84.

23. Heroic Ballads with Poems of War and Patriotism.

GINN & CO. 12 mo. pp. 319. - 50c

24. The Great Round World and What Is Going On in It. A Weekly Newspaper for Children, 10c per copy, $2.50 per year. William Beverley Harrison, 59 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

The paper is bound substantially in book form. Covers and paper are all that can be desired for durability, while the print is excellent. This is an aid which every teacher will appreciate. We can not train our pupils to be citizens of the world by allowing them to pursue their studies in ignorance of what is going on in the world. Daily newspapers have serious defects for the training desired. This little paper seems exactly what we wish. The style is clear and entertaining, the English and the material given is admirably selected. Points which puzzle grown people in newspapers, are made simple here, but there is an entire absence of the "My-dear-little-children" style which so exasperates the average school boy. From sixth grade upward, pupils will enjoy the paper, high school pupils and teachers most of all.

GENERAL HISTORY

A series of stories such as are suggested by the sub-headings may be told to a sixth or seventh grade class. They will serve as nuclei for supplementary reading which may be selected from the books marked S. Other books are added to assist the teacher and to be used for reference by the pupils.

LOVELL, CORYELL & CO. Oxford Edition. Each 50c

When books like the above can be secured, printed on good paper with good cloth binding, for 50c, there is no excuse for teaching Roman history without the illumination which they afford. The low price places these books within the reach of the seventh and eighth grades as supplementary readers. No classics are enjoyed by pupils of this age as much as these. They should be read both at home and at school. Close study of details is out of place in the grades.

Estes & Lauriat publish finely illustrated editions of Aurelian and Zenobia for $2.50 each. Joseph Knight & Co. publish an illustrated edition of Hypatia for $4.00; Harper & Bros., $7.00. Estes & Lauriat publish Last Days of Pompeii, finely illustrated, in two volumes for $6.00. Happy is the teacher who can secure one of these illustrated editions just to look at for one day, while the class are reading the book.

Dr. Frank McMurry at Buffalo, in 1896, mentioned the use of the Alhambra in the work of a mixed fourth and fifth grade. They had been studying the life of Columbus and the geography of Spain. Irving's description of the Alhambra became very interesting at this time. He says, "Some parts of our Jewish Temple (the one at Buffalo) which are Moorish, were observed and sketched. The Alhambra was roughly modeled in wood, and the columns were modeled in lead." In these grades, or in sixth and seventh grades, the right setting may thus make something of the beauty of the Alhambra the children's possession for life.

SPECIAL TOPICS

In giving a course of English History in the seventh grade, one story, perhaps continued for several days, may be told for each of the following sub-headings. The books mentioned will assist in this simple course and will also serve for more extended study. Those marked S will make good supplementary reading. The other books are for reference both for teacher and pupil. Many of the latter class will be read by the stronger pupils.

S 1. Wonderful Adventures of Phra, the Phœnician.

—Edwin L. Arnold.

A. L. BURT & CO. Home Library. 12 mo. - 75c

This presents different epochs of English history in such a way as greatly to assist a teacher giving a simple course of stories.

S 2. London.—Walter Besant.

HARPER & BROTHERS. 8 vo. pp. 509. - $3.00

This describes in a most interesting manner the life of people in London at successive periods of history. The book will help the teacher through all English History.

CANADA, THE NORTHWEST AND THE FRENCH AND INDIAN WAR

The beginning of history in the Northwestern states is naturally in the study of the early explorations of that section. The fourth and fifth grades and classes beginning history in the country schools are very much interested in Father Hennepin, LaSalle and the French Traders.

The stories should be told by the teacher at first; but they should be told by a teacher who has read Parkman's La Salle, the Jesuits of North America, Pioneers of France, and Count Frontenac. The teacher should lead the pupils to read Parkman, first by selecting some of the most fascinating parts for them to look up, and finally by leading them to read the book as a whole. Parkman's style is so simple, clear and charming that he is an admirable author to lead pupils to read history for themselves. For assistance in adaptation see Dr. McMurry's Pioneers of the Mississippi Valley. See page 173.

METHOD OF PRIMARY READING

See Waymarks for Teachers and Col. Parker's Pedagogics.

1. The Rational Method of Reading. Manual of Instruction for Teachers. — Edw. G. Ward.

SILVER BURDETT & CO. pp. 43. - - 30c

This manual is full of admirable suggestions for the teaching of beginners both in reading and spelling. The old alphabet method had one advantage. It recognized syllables. Advance in learning to read must indeed be slow when long words are perceived in as many pieces as there are letters. No child will find out the word "remember" for himself by pronouncing the eight sounds in succession. Mr. Ward's idea of the "phonogram" and "blending" are of great value in meeting this difficulty.

6. An Experiment in Education. Also the Ideas which Inspired It and were Inspired by It.—Mary R. Alling Aber.

HARPER & BROTHERS. 12 mo. - - $1.25

An interesting account of the method of using science as a basis of primary reading and language lessons. Part of this was published in Popular Science Monthly, Vol. XL, pp. 377 and 517.

LANGUAGE AND METHOD

1. Letters and Lessons in Language.—J. H. Stickney.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. 1 to 4, each 16c; 5 (grammar), 35c

In the multitude of language exercises issued since the publication of Miss Stickney's Letters and Lessons, while no one has succeeded better in the selection of literature for children, no one has equaled her in the use of literature as a means of improving the pupil's use of English.

8. The Foundations of Rhetoric.—Adams Sherman Hill.

HARPER & BROTHERS. 12 mo. pp. 337. - $1.00

This is one of the best authorities on the critical use of English. The teacher should have it at hand for reference when doubtful as to the use of words.

9. Talks on Writing English.—Arlo Bates.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 12 mo. - $1.50

10. Primary Language Series. — Alice Woodworth Cooley and Others.

NATIONAL EDUCATIONAL CO.

This consists of a chart of seventy-two pages, forty-five of which are beautifully illustrated, with an accompanying manual of over three hundred pages. The lessons follow the cycle of the year's thought, from the fall flowers and Thanksgiving, through winter sports and Christmas, to the awakening life of spring. Literature and history are introduced most effectively. Every lesson shows that it has been tested in the actual work of the schoolroom. This is a most valuable contribution to the methods of primary language teaching.

GRAMMAR—Methods and Matter

1. Essentials of English Grammar.—W. D. Whitney.

GINN & CO. pp. 260. - - $1.25

2. Elements of Composition and Grammar. — G. A. Southworth and F. B. Goddard.

LEACH, SHEWELL & SANBORN. pp. 300. - 65c

In this book, it is possible to find correct ideas of infinitives and participles, and rational treatment of conjugation of verbs, and verb phrases. This may also be found in Whitney's Essentials, but in too difficult a form for eighth grades. Southworth and Goddard's grammar presents all these points very clearly and simply. The teacher should possess a copy of Whitney's Essentials for reference.

3. The English Language. — Brainard Kellogg and Alonzo Reid.

MAYNARD, MERRILL & CO. 16 mo. pp. 223. - 60c

This is a most valuable little book for the teacher of grammar. The history of our language is first given so simply that it may be read with profit by pupils of the eighth grade. Then follows a drill in word analysis. Here the selection of roots is good enough to serve as an outline for sixth, seventh and eighth grades in word building. The result of such a course would be practical familiarity with all our common roots, prefixes and suffixes.

4. New Word Analysis.—William Swinton.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. pp. 184. - - 35c

5. Etymological Dictionary of the English Language.

THE MACMILLAN CO. Quarto. - - $6.00

6. Language and the Study of Language. — W. D. Whitney.

7. The Life and Growth of Language.—W. Dwight Whitney.

D. APPLETON & CO. Inter. Sci. Ser. pp. 326. $1.50

Interest in the study of words can never be produced unless we study the origin and changes in words. In short, there is the method of science to be employed here as elsewhere. The teacher of technical grammar should be so familiar with Whitney, Marsh and Max Muller as to be able to arouse new interest in inflections and word study. It is for this purpose that Nos. 7 to 14 are recommended under grammar method. These authors present the subject in a most interesting and popular way so that the teacher who engages in this line of study for the first time, will find it very fascinating.

6. Age of Fable.—Thomas Bulfinch.

LEE & SHEPARD. pp. 472. - - $2.50

Pupils who have never before heard of Jupiter or the Cyclopes are struggling with the translation of Virgil in our high schools. Milton's Paradise Lost is a hated book to many a poor student of literature because he cannot interpret one of the classical allusions without a painful search which robs the beautiful figure of all its charm and makes it a veritable symbol of drudgery and confusion. Even Longfellow and Lowell become dry if the reader of the Golden Legend or Sir Launfal brings no idea of the old stories of chivalry and mediæval romance. Hawthorne, Kingsley and others present these stories in beautiful form, but Bulfinch's books should be on every desk for three reasons: 1. All the stories needed for appreciation of good literature are here; 2. Every story appears here connected with the allusions made to it by good authors; 3. The story is told accurately, scarcely departing from a free translation. This indicates to the teacher what parts of the story should not be changed, however freely they are enlarged upon.

24. Homes of the New World.—Frederika Bremer.

HARPER & BROTHERS. 1853. 2 Vols. 12 mo.

Those of us who read this book when young, feel that it was an important part of our education. Miss Bremer visited the homes of Lowell, Longfellow and others of our great writers. Her pictures of simple cultivated homes are not only an aid in studying literature but are well calculated to impress the young reader with the essentials of "high living." If this is out of print, school libraries should demand a new edition.

STANDARD LITERATURE IN SERIES

The teacher should send to the publishers for catalogues of the following series and specimen copies. Some series are much superior to others in print and paper, as well as in editorial notes. Paper covers should never be bought for anything but transient use, as they teach slovenliness when passed through many hands, besides costing more in the end.

1. Students' Series of English Classics.

LEACH, SHEWELL & SANBORN. 25, 35 and 50c each

2. Rolfe's Classics.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Square 16 mo. - 75c

These are illustrated and have valuable notes by the editor.
A beautiful edition for students.

3. The World's Classics.

GINN & CO. Each - - - 75c

Open Sesame has been placed first on the list of collections of poems for school use. Other collections have much that is valuable, but it is only of Open Sesame that the teacher can say that every single selection can be used sooner or later. Everything not of high literary value is excluded. Too often such collections have mixed with their literature, poems which make some bright hit but whose style is puerile and faulty. From this fault, Open Sesame is entirely free.

7. Poetry for Home and School.—Edited by A. C. Brackett and I. M. Eliot.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS. pp. 320. - - $1.00

A collection from which no teacher will miss her old favorites.

8. A Book of Famous Verse.—Edited by Agnes Repplier.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 16 mo. - 75c

9. Golden Treasury of the Best Songs and Lyrical Poems in the English Language. Francis Turner Palgrave.

THE MACMILLAN CO. School Library. - 50c

10. New Library of Poetry and Song. William Cullen Bryant.

FORDS, HOWARD & HURLBURT. pp. 1,076. $5.00

11. From Milton to Tennyson.—Edited by L. DuPont Sylc.

ALLYN & BACON. 12 mo. pp. 480. - $1.00

Someone has said that children's literature should be the same as that for adults, which is true to this extent: nothing which is not worthy of study by adults should ever be presented to children. This collection is unusually well chosen, and is in excellent form.

12. Percy's Reliques of Old English Poetry.

FREDERICK WARNE. Chandos Classics. 12 mo. $1.00

This was Sir Walter Scott's first reading book. In his journal, he describes himself when a mere baby as shouting these ballads aloud during his play. Warne's edition is very carefully printed for the price.

13. Complete Poetic and Dramatic Works of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Cambridge Edition. $1.50

The Cambridge Editions are suited especially to the teacher's needs. They contain biographical sketches, histories of important poems and indexes of titles and first lines, with portrait of author. Longfellow's poems which are especially liked by little children are The Three Kings, The Bell of Atri, The Emperor's Bird's Nest, Hiawatha, Leap of Roushan Beg, and Alfred the Truth Teller. Among the large number appreciated by the grammar grades are Birds of Killingworth, Miles Standish, Golden Legend, New England Tragedies, Paul Revere and Evangeline.

14. Complete Poetical Works of John Greenleaf Whittier.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Cambridge Edition. $1.50

Little children like Barbara Frietchie, The Frost Spirit, In School Days and Barefoot Boy, while older pupils enjoy Slaves of Martinique, The Palm Tree, Songs of Labor, Vaudois Teacher, All's Well, Pass of the Sierras, Last Walk in Autumn, Snow Bound, and Tent on the Beach.

- 15. A Book of Old English Ballads.—Edited by Hamilton Mabie.

THE MACMILLAN CO. 12 mo. Illustrated. $2.00

- 16. Poems of James Russell Lowell.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Cambridge Edition. $1.50

Rhæcus, The Chippewa Legend, The Fountain, The Violet, To the Dandelion, and The Snowfall are fitted to primary grades. The Singing Leaves, Sir Launfal, Youssof, The Summer Storm, Indian Summer Reverie and others are interesting to grammar grades.

- 17. Poems of William Cullen Bryant.

D. APPLETON & CO. Household Edition. - $1.50

The White-Footed Deer, Robert of Lincoln, The Little People of the Snow are useful in lowest primary grades; while The Snow Shower, Planting the Apple Tree, Song of the Sower, The Tides, Sella, Forest Hymn, Death of Flowers, To the Fringed Gentian, The Prairies, The Evening Wind, The Arctic Lover and To the Appennines, will be enjoyed by grammar grades.

- 18. Complete Poetical Works of Oliver Wendell Holmes.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Cambridge Edition. $1.50

Children enjoy the Height of the Ridiculous, The One Hoss Shay and the Broomstick Train. Every pupil enjoys all the humorous poems, while the older boys and girls are made better by the Chambered Nautilus, Old Ironsides, Robinson of Leyden, and Dorothy Q.

- 19. Poems of Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 8 vo. - $1.50

An Arab Welcome, Tiger Lilies, When the Sultan goes to Is-pahan, Before the Rain and After the Rain are beautiful poems for little folks, while The Bluebells of New England, Frostwork, A Snow Flake, Baby Bell and Friar Jerome's Beautiful Book are enjoyed by older grades.

20. Selections from Emerson's Poems.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Paper. - 15c

21. Poems of Alfred Tennyson.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. - - $1.50

The Owl, A Spirit Haunts the Year's Last Hours, The Merman and the Mermaid, the Lady of Shalott, Lady Clare, the Eagle and the Sleeping Beauty are useful in primary grades. Later, Sir Galahad (with Lowell's Sir Launfal), the Princess, Enoch Arden, and parts of In Memoriam are liked.

22. Poems of John Godfrey Saxe.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 16 mo. - $1.00

The stories of Ovid, Phaethon, Pyramus and Thisbe and others are most amusingly told in verse. The Proud Miss McBride and others are well fitted to grammar grades.

23. Rhymes of Childhood.—James Whitcomb Riley.

BOWEN-MERRILL CO. - - - $1.25

24. A Child World.—James Whitcomb Riley.

BOWEN-MERRILL CO. - - - $1.25

When Mr. Riley on the lecture platform tells the bear story as a little child would tell it, the audience surrenders unconditionally to his wonderful power of interpretation of child nature. Teachers should study children through Riley. The children themselves must have their Raggedy Man, Little Orphant Annie, the "Squid-gicum-Squees what swallows themselves," and the "nine little goblins that can't tell coppers from cold mince-pies." Nature study would lose half its pleasure without "The Southwind and the Sun, Down around the River and the Little Red Apple Tree." No school can afford to be without Riley's poems.

25. Little Book of Western Verse.—Eugene Field.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 16 mo. pp. 202. $1.25

26. Second Book of Verse.—Eugene Field.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 16 mo. pp. 260. $1.25

Mr. Field is another poet so thoroughly in sympathy with youth and childhood, that we cannot afford to miss his exquisite verse from our school library.

27. National Epics.—Kate Milner Rabb.

A. C. MCCLURG & CO. pp. 398 - - $1.50

Here are outlines of the Iliad, Odyssey, Nibelungen Lied, Poem of the Cid and thirteen other poems from twelve nationalities. Typical selections accompany each story.

This may be used in sixth grade in connection with the geography of Switzerland. Its dramatic form makes it excellent for oral reading. Its great value lies, however, in the intense interest it arouses. With pupils whose taste for literature has never been developed, this is a safe study for a beginning.

This is a delightful little classic for boys and girls. If only exciting and sensational books of adventure are placed in their hands, they will soon become incapable of appreciating anything else. The charming story of the companionship afforded the lonely prisoner by a little flower furnishes a kind of literature greatly needed in children's libraries.

"Nobody does anything well that he cannot help doing." "Tell me what you like and I will tell you what you are." Ruskin is a veritable mine for a teacher of any grade, to work. Such quotations will aid greatly in securing moral training of even the youngest pupils. The three-volume set of Altemus, comprising these essays each in separate volume and printed on good paper in beautiful and durable form, is a most desirable edition for teachers.

THE MACMILLAN CO. 2 Vols. Cloth. - $4.00

85. American Literature and Other Papers. Introduction by J. G. Whittier. — E. P. Whipple.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. 8 vo. - $1 50

This contains an essay originally used to introduce a book on Daniel Webster. It is the best educational paper extant on the writing of compositions in school, and with the essay on Use and Abuse of Words, should be in the working library of the teacher of English.

86. On Money. Bishop Thorold.

DODD, MEAD & CO. 18 mo. Cloth. - 50c

87. Books by John Kendrick Bangs.

89. The Story of Jean Valjean.— Edited by Sara E. Wiltse.

GINN & CO. pp. 1122.

Miss Wiltse's work in adapting Les Misérables has been admirably done. The book ought to be read by every pupil in seventh and eighth grades. It is excellent for class reading. In the time of character forming, ideals like the good bishop and Jean Valjean have permanent moral effect.

NATURE STUDY

GENERAL

METHOD AND MATTER

Literature closely associated with natural phenomena is included under every heading.

1. Methods of Study in Natural History.—Professor Louis Agassiz.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Crown 8 vo. - $1.50

2. Nature Study for Common Schools.—Wilbur S. Jackman.

HENRY HOLT & CO. 12 mo. pp. 448. - $1.20

The best idea of method in the grades. The teacher who has no idea of teaching science except to teach a book or a prepared outline will certainly be disappointed in Prof. Jackman.

3. Nature Study Correlated with Other Work of the Schoolroom.—Wilbur S. Jackman.

CHICAGO NORMAL SCHOOL. - - - 85c

4. Field Work in Nature Study.

CHICAGO NORMAL SCHOOL. - - - 85c

Useful in Physiography.

5. Nature Study and the Child.—Charles B. Scott.

D. C. HEATH & CO. Part 1.

This contains a full bibliography of books helpful in elementary science.

6. Illustrated Library of Wonders.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 24 Vols. Each $1.00

Volumes especially valuable will be referred to under separate headings.

7. Addresses of T. H. Huxley.

1. LAY SERMONS, ADDRESSES, and REVIEWS. - $1.75

2. SCIENCE AND CULTURE. - - - 1.50

D. APPLETON & CO.

8. The Common Sense of Exact Sciences.—W. K. Clifford.

D. APPLETON & CO. 12 mo. - - $1.50

9. The Grammar of Science.—Karl Pearson.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. 12 mo. Illus. $1.25

10. Illustrated Dictionary of Scientific Terms.—W. Rossiter.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS. 12 mo. - - $1.75

11. Three Kingdoms.—Harlan H. Ballard.

WRITERS PUBLISHING CO.

Useful for general reference. It is written by the president of the Agassiz association.

12. Home Studies in Nature.—M. Treat.

AMERICAN BOOK CO. - - - 90c

13. In Child World.—Emilie Poulsson. See page 11.

14. Nature Study.

SCHOOL EDUCATION COMPANY. Paper. - 25

15. Elementary Science.

SCHOOL EDUCATION COMPANY. Paper. - 25c

Nos. 15 and 16 are exceedingly helpful to the teacher in the grades.

16. Systematic Science Teaching.—E. G. Howe.

D. APPLETON & CO. 12 mo. - - $1.50

17. Parables from Nature.—Mrs. Alfred Gatty.

A. C. MCCLURG & CO. Illustrated.

THE MACMILLAN CO. 2 Vols. Each - 75c

18. Book of Days.—R. Chambers.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT CO. pp. 832. - - $2.45

19. Evenings at the Microscope.—P. H. Gosse.

D. APPLETON & CO. 12 mo. Cloth. - $1.50

20. Microscopy for Beginners.—A. C. Stokes.

HARPER & BROTHERS. 12 mo. - - $1.50

SUPPLEMENTARY READING—First Grade1. Nature Myths and Stories for Little Children.—

Flora J. Cooke.

A. FLANAGAN & CO. pp. 102. Boards, 35c; cloth, 25c

The ultimate test of such books is their use in the schoolroom. The teacher will find the complex process of teaching little children to read, wonderfully lightened by the use of a book which is as perfectly adapted to the purpose as is Miss Cooke's.

2. Little Nature Studies for Little People from John Burroughs.—Mary E. Burt.
GINN & CO. Boards. pp. 141. - - 29c
3. Skyward and Back.—Lucy M. Robinson.
SCHOOL EDUCATION COMPANY. Cloth. pp. 101. 30c
Another charming book perfectly adapted to its use.
4. Normal Envelope. Published by Chicago Normal School Publishing Co. Monthly, per year, $2.50
5. Through the Farmyard Gate.—Emilie Poulsson.
LOTHROP PUBLISHING CO. Quarto. Illus. $1.50
Pictures and stories of animals.
6. Seed Babies.—Margaret W. Morley.
GINN & CO. pp. 75. Beautifully Illustrated. 25c
Miss Morley's style of writing is good. Little Jack and Ko are something more than the wooden puppets which serve to connect information in too many of our nature readers.
7. Book of Cats and Dogs. James Johonnot.
AMERICAN BOOK CO. pp. 96. - - 17c

SECOND GRADE

1. Cat-Tails and Other Tales.—Mary H. Howliston.
A. FLANAGAN & CO. - - - 40c
Sense, thought and good literary form are characteristics somewhat rare in the many nature story books for children. Miss Howliston adds wit to these essentials, and her book is pronounced charming by the severest critics among the little folks.
2. Nature's Byways. Nellie Walton Ford.
THE MORSE CO. Cloth. pp. 118. Illus. - 40c

3. Young Folks' Pictures and Stories of Animals.—Mrs. Sanborn Tenney.
1. QUADRUPEDS.
 2. BIRDS.
 3. FISHES AND REPTILES.
 4. BEES, BUTTERFLIES AND OTHER INSECTS.
 5. SEA SHELLS AND RIVER SHELLS.
 6. SEA URCHINS, STAR FISHES AND CORALS.
- LEE & SHEPARD. pp. 150. Each - - 35c
4. The Plant Baby and Its Friends.—Kate Louise Broten.
- SILVER, BURDETT & CO. pp. 155. - - 48c
5. Feathers and Fur.—James Johonnot.
- AMERICAN BOOK CO. pp. 140. - - 30c
6. Leaves and Flowers.—Mary A. Spear.
- D. C. HEATH & CO. pp. 103. Illus. - 25c
7. Four Feet, Two Feet and No Feet. Edited by Laura E. Richards.
- ESTES & LAURIAT. Quarto. Illustrated. $1.75
8. Queer Little People.—Harriet Beecher Stowe.
- HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Small 12 mo. - $1.25
9. Cat Stories. Helen Hunt Jackson.
1. LETTERS FROM A CAT.
 2. HUNTER CATS FROM CONNORLOA.
- ROBERTS BROS. Each - - - $1.25
11. The Animal Story Book.— Edited by Andrew Lang.
- LONGMANS, GREEN & CO. 12 mo. Cloth. - $1.50

12. Little Talks About Insect Life.—Serial in Our Little Men and Women, for the year 1886.

13. Pets and Companions.—J. H. Stickney.

GINN & CO. pp. 142. - - - 30c

THIRD AND FOURTH GRADES

1. Black Beauty: The Autobiography of a Horse.—Anna Sewall.

E. A. WEEKS & CO. Handy Volume Series. 25c

Black Beauty is indispensable. The children in the third and fourth grades enjoy no other reader as well. The children's sympathy for animals is always aroused by the narrative, and many a youthful humane society owes its existence to Mrs. Sewall's touching story. The very cheap edition of Weeks & Co. has a good cloth binding, and is preferable to the paper editions.

2. Kinfolk.

AUTHORS' PUBLISHING CO. - - - 50c

Very delightful nature reader for fourth grade. It is full of dramatic passages good for oral reading.

3. Buz; Life of a Honey Bee.—Maurice Noel.

KINDERGARTEN LITERATURE CO. - - - $1.00

4. Selections from Youth's Companion

1. BITS OF BIRD LIFE.

2. OUR LITTLE NEIGHBORS.

PERRY MASON & CO. Each - - - 10c

5. Stories Mother Nature Told Her Children.—Jane Andrews.

GINN & CO. pp. 151. - - - 50c

- 6. Leaves from Nature's Story Book. — Mrs. M. A. B. Kelly.
 1. GENERAL. 2. INSECTS AND BIRDS. 3. SEA ANIMALS.
 EDUCATIONAL PUBLISHING CO. Boards, 40c; cloth, 60c
- 7. Tommy-Anne; or Three Hearts. — Mabel Osgood Wright.

FIFTH TO EIGHTH GRADES

1. Science Sketches.—David Starr Jordan.

A. C. MCCLURG & CO. New and Enlarged Ed. $1.50

S 2. Modern Painters.—John Ruskin.

MAYNARD, MERRILL & CO. Abridged paper 12c

Sky, clouds, storms, water, waves, mountains, pines, grass, moss and lichens.

3. Works of Henry D. Thoreau.

1. EARLY SPRING IN MASSACHUSETTS. 16 mo. - $1.00

2. EARLY SUMMER IN MASSACHUSETTS. 16 mo. - 1.00

3. EARLY AUTUMN IN MASSACHUSETTS. 16 mo. - 1.00

4. EARLY WINTER IN MASSACHUSETTS. 16 mo. - 1.00

S 5. WALDEN, OR LIFE IN THE WOODS. Crown 8 vo. 1.50

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO.

All of Thoreau's works, bound in boards, eleven volumes, 8 vo can be bought for four dollars. Thoreau is placed first among the list of essayists on nature, because no one quite equals him in this department of literature.

S 4. Natural History of Selborne.—Gilbert White.

GINN & CO. pp. 251. - Boards, 40c; cloth, 50c

CASSELL & CO. 2 Vols. Paper. Each - 10c

There are no allusions to life like those which we find in Burroughs. These are simple and delightfully clear observations of facts. The beginning description of Selborne may not interest the eighth grade, but if the class begin to read with letter seventh about the deer and the deer-stealers, they will be interested enough to finish the book, and begin at the beginning. Letter VII may be used to illustrate a period of English History.

5. My Garden Acquaintance, Good Word for Winter, Moosehead Journal, At Sea — James Russell Lowell.
HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. Modern Classics. 40c
6. At the North of Bear-Camp Water and the Land of the Lingering Snow. — Frank Bolles. See p. 113.

8. A Tour round My Garden. — From the French of Alphonse Karr.
A. C. MCCLURG & CO. - - - $2.50
9. William Hamilton Gibson's Works. Illustrated by the Author.
1. HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS; or Saunterings in New England. Quarto. pp. 158. - - - $7.50
 2. CAMP LIFE IN THE WOODS. 16 mo. pp. 300. - 1.00
 3. SHARP EYES; a Rambler's Calendar of Fifty-Two Weeks among Birds, Insects and Flowers. Cloth. pp. 322. $2.50
- HARPER & BROTHERS.
- Those who heard Mr. Gibson's lectures to teachers, before his death, need no urging to secure these books for inspiration in nature study. "Sharp Eyes" is especially valuable. The method of studying plants in connection with their bird or insect visitors is the best, and Mr. Gibson not only gives assistance for this in the text, but in his wonderful drawings.
- S 10 The Friendship of Nature. Mabel Osgood Wright.
THE MACMILLAN CO. 18 mo. Gilt top. - 75c

S 11. Glimpses of the Animate World.—James Johnnot.

The value of this book in the study of insects lies in our meeting spiders, ants, bees, crickets, and other insects, not on pins for dissection, but happily alive in their own haunts. Mr. McCook is a most inspiring companion, for he makes us see clearly the things which always escape the observation of the untrained naturalist. Nor are we allowed to make mistakes. The accuracy of the book is vouched for by no less an authority than Sir John Lubbock, who writes the preface.

Miss Ballard has done more than to supply us with material we greatly need in the grades. She has given us a book so charmingly and sympathetically written, that love of nature and enthusiasm cannot but be stirred. The life history of our common butterflies can easily be traced in any grade by the help of this book alone. If but one book can be bought, this will be the most valuable.

The most valuable part of nature study in the grades is the study of agricultural plants, the corn, pea, bean, etc. Germination of seeds, food of the plants, their growth as related to atmosphere and soil, may be studied from the first grade upward. The main drawback is lack of scientific knowledge on the part of the teacher. The study of these two books, which should be in the working library of every school, will enable the teacher to stand upon firm ground as she teaches this line, and will add much to her enthusiasm.

Our fifth grade studied fungi under the guidance of this book. Mouldy peaches, fruits, and the common toad-stools suddenly became very interesting to the children. The woodpiles and the rocks were searched for lichens, and each morning, the children appeared with motley collections of things generally considered repulsive, but which their enthusiasm transformed into treasures. The matter contained in this volume is taken from "The Woods and Byways of New England." The study of trees should not consist of dry catalogues of parts and descriptions of leaves and trunk, nor should uses in commerce be the only thing. If the child learns to distinguish beauty in the sturdy trunk, grace and delicacy in the foliage, and to enjoy the wonderful combination of these qualities in the elm, something of the purpose of nature study is attained. Mr. Flagg's book can open the eyes of teachers to this aspect of a tree, and so help them to infuse life into an otherwise dead study.

CENTURY CO. 16 mo. pp. 160. - $1.00

Bradford Torrey found over seventy species of birds in Boston Common. Many schools must observe nature as she creeps in almost unnoticed into nooks and corners of crowded thoroughfares, if they observe her at all; hence the value of a book like Mr. Skinner's, which describes nature's doings with the made-soil of a Brooklyn backyard.

The recent reported opposition of the great railroads of this country to the construction of the Nicaragua canal brings that question once more sharply to the front. Not all the readers of The Herald may be aware that the subject of piercing the American isthmus by a water way, either at Panama or Nicaragua, has employed more or less public attention in Europe or America for over three hundred years.

During the reign of the Emperor Ferdinand of Spain that enterprising monarch favored the project, selecting, however, the Panama as the shorter, though more costly route, and the one nearest the then Spanish colony of Peru. Philip, his successor, with keener sense of commercial results, selected the Nicaragua as the more feasible and less expensive route. But nothing came of either enterprise, and for the succeeding two hundred years the matter was allowed to rest. Since then attempts were made by European kings and capitalists to build the canal—attempts that were foiled mainly by the assertion and insistence on the part of our government of the Monroe doctrine, though we ourselves took no active steps in instituting work on the isthmian project.

The discoveries of gold in California gave new spirit to the canal enterprise, and but for the provisions of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, it is more than likely that in 1849 concession would have been obtained from Nicaragua, giving the United States exclusive right of constructing the canal across the isthmus, and the work would have been commenced, and doubtless pushed to completion.

By the way, the Clayton-Bulwer treaty is, just now, especially in the light of the events of the Spanish-American war, a literary curiosity. By the terms of this famous treaty, made during the administration of President Taylor, it was agreed that neither Great Britain nor the United States should ever obtain exclusive control over the Nicaragua canal, nor build any fortifications along its route, and that neither country should ever take possession of any part of Central America or establish colonies there, or exert any dominion. And that treaty is today in full force and effect! It would seem to be in order that before the incoming congress makes provision for the construction of the Nicaragua canal—and certainly the American people expect as much as that at the hands of their senators and representatives in congress—steps should be taken looking to the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. In the present amiable temper of the two countries towards each other this should not be a very difficult accomplishment. At any rate, the treaty should be repealed. It is a standing menace to the freedom of action of the United States, and squints perceptibly at the integrity of the Monroe doctrine.

Whatever railroad kings may say to the contrary, or may cause to be said, one event during the war with Spain, to-wit, the incomparable but perilous voyage of the battleship Oregon, from the Golden Gate to Tampa, Florida, is alone sufficient proof to the American people that the construction of the Nicaragua canal—by our own government and under its exclusive control—is a military as well as a commercial necessity, the further postponement of which endangers the safety as it retards the prosperity of the United States.
